Steam Corner, Ind., June 28.—Miss Daisy Reed adjusted the boudoir cap on her wispy red hair and tightened the wooden spigot on the vinegar barrel in her general store before she spoke.

Arrow locates Steam Corner.

"Folks in Steam Corner not know about the war?" she repeated curiously. "Why, we had the first Indianny boy to be killed. James R. Rooe he was, Jimmy Rooe. He's the first boy around here to give up his life in this war. Boy, we all hated it. He was an awful nice boy. Born in the big house on the road here.

"Yes, ma'am, James R. Rooe was our Steam Corner boy. Been bandmaster on the U. S. S. Oklahoma 30 years. Went down at Pearl Harbor. Yes, ma'am. His father taught the school here when there was a school.

"Half the boys from the country 'round here have gone," she continued chattily as she measured out half a pound of sugar with a wooden scoop. "I can't remember names well, but—Miss Rosie!" She raised her voice to a thin screech, and out from the recesses of a back room came Mrs. Rosie V. Tinder.

Wars? She Recalls Three!

Miss Rosie wore a calico cap and a lavender shawl and carried a patchwork pillow to ease her bones on the rocker bench. She introduced herself with a brisk modesty. "I'm the oldest person in Steam Corner. I'm 83. Remember everything. Know everybody. Remember when they sold calico right here for eight cents a yard. Once Steam Corner even had a millinery shop. Bought my weddin' hat at it.. heh.. heh," and she lapsed chuckling into the past.

Miss Rosie had difficulty attuning her mind to the present. She easily recited names of the Steam Corner men who went in the Spanish-American war and the World war, but this one. . . .

"Well, plenty of our good boys gone to it," she said flatly. "There's the Myers boy and the Riley boy and then—who else, Daisy?"

"The Jones boy," Daisy took up the thread. "And the Coats boys and the Robertson boy and Willie Hoover. Where's he at, Miss Rosie? You know?"

Miss Rosie didn't know.

Steam Corner's Boys Enlist.

"There's more gone than a body can think of," Daisy went on, "and pretty soon there'll be others. Our boys enlist. Many's a-hittin' for the navy. Now Velmar Hutts, I forgot him. He was in Pearl Harbor. He had almost an eye put out. He was on one of the ships, but I don't know what he done."

Miss Daisy and Miss Rosie know just about everything that Steam Corner is doing in the war, for Miss Daisy's store—a rambling old frame structure, set flush with the pavement of U. S. highway 41, 150 miles south of Chicago—is the social center of the community. One might say it is Steam Corner, for this typical American crossroads community has a population of 12, and Miss Daisy says it is "as big now as it ever were."

Miss Daisy's store was the postoffice back in the days when Steam Corner had a postoffice. Now it is the place where everybody "drops in."

Here the news of the countryside drifts in and the affairs of the world, tuned in on the battered old radio, are analyzed.

Report $270 'Bribe' Paid to a Coast Guard

Francis Biddle.

New York, June 28 [Special].—An unarmed coast guardsman who was taken prisoner by four Nazi saboteurs after he had watched them row ashore from a German submarine at Amagansett beach, Long Island, on the misty night of June 13 was revealed today as the unnamed hero who started the chain of events leading to the smashing of Germany's latest and biggest sabotage plot.

Disclosure of this coast guardsman's dramatic rôle in the breakup of the sabotage ring came from citizens of Amagansett while the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in swift follow-up action to the seizure of eight saboteurs landed from U-boats, arrested several more espionage suspects, accused of being "contacts and associates" of the invaders.

Swift Action Promised.

Attorney General Francis Biddle, in Washington, promised the government would deal "swiftly and thoroly" with the prisoners. Whether the men are to be tried by civil or military authorities may have to be determined by President Roosevelt, it was said.

Coast guard officials at Amagansett refused to discuss the adventure of the coast guardsman who interrupted the Nazi landing operation, and he was reported absent from the station today "on detached duty."

Persons conversant with the story locally, however, said the man secured his freedom and the opportunity to report the landing of the saboteurs by accepting a bribe of $270 which the Nazis, afraid to kill him, offered him with the hope it would silence him.

Sees Sub from Shore.

It was learned the coast guardsman was walking a three and one-half mile beat along the shore and was in a sparsely settled summer colony when he saw the submarine's conning tower break the surface.

Seeking concealment in the shrubbery, he watched the crewmen launch a big rubber boat and row ashore and land four men and several cases. These later were found to contain some of the most effective explosives turned out by Hitler's chemists, and according to the FBI, were to have been used in the bombing of key railroad centers and bridges in and near New York City, the blasting of New York's water supply lines, destruction of the hydroelectric plant at Niagara Falls and the bombing of three plants of the Aluminum Company of America.

A Problem for the Spies.

No explanation was given as to how the Nazis happened to capture the coast guardsman but it was surmised he may have remained to spy on the group as they buried the explosives.

After the capture, however, the coast guardsman was held while his

GUTKNECHT RAPS NAZI SUPPORTERS

German-American Group Repledges Loyalty.

German-Americans whom he characterized as "leaders" and "bigwigs" of the Chicago community were denounced last night by Municipal Judge John Gutknecht for their covert sympathy with Hitler and the Nazis. The judge said these men and women often had been seen around Hitler's Nazi consulate in the city, where they had hailed the German dictator.

They had, he added, been "seduced" by the German consul, had fallen for the "blandishments" of Hitler's recent agents in Chicago.

Five Cities Represented.

He spoke at the midwest conference of the German-American Anti-Axis league in the Social Turner hall, Belmont avenue and Paulina street, attended by more than 100 delegates from Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Milwaukee, and New York, who renewed their pledge of loyalty to the United States.

"I see," said Judge Gutknecht, looking around the hall, "that these same bigwigs are conspicuous by their absence here tonight. I mean a number of men whom I could name who were misled and seduced by the former German consul in Chicago, who succumbed to the blandishments of Hitler's Nazi agents here.

"Some of these German leaders, these professional Germans for vote getting purposes, are far from true Americans.

"Betrayed" by Leaders.

"We true and loyal German-Americans must disown such leadership. We must distinguish between these friends of Nazism and the masses of good United States citizens, thousands of whom are fighting for the united nations from all over the land.

"The loyal ones here are like the masses of the German people in Germany, they have been betrayed by leaders. Over there it was such as Hitler, in Germany, Chamberlain in England, and Pierre Laval in France, who did the betraying.

"And let us get away from the saying that we are fighting England's war. We are fighting our own war. England will come out of this war a second rate power."

72 American Sailors Killed When U-Boats Sink 3 Vessels

New York, June 28 [Special].—At least 72 American seamen lost their lives in the sinking by enemy submarines of three more United States merchant ships, the navy disclosed today. One of the three, a small ship, was sunk with her entire crew of 33 men, the first sinking, it was believed, from which no survivors escaped since the submarine warfare began on this side of the Atlantic.

Navy surface patrol craft and planes racing to the point in the Gulf of Mexico where this ship had been seen burning on June 22 found only a great column of black smoke, a small workboat, unoccupied and unmarked, and part of a life preserver which established the identity of the ship.

Two Others Destroyed.

The other ships whose loss was acknowledged today were a medium sized ship torpedoed in the Caribbean June 2 with the loss of 28 lives, and a small ship sunk off the Atlantic coast May 18, with 11 dead among her crew.

These sinkings brought to 320 the total in American and adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor. Of these, 277 have been sunk in American coastal waters with a loss of 1,633 lives. A total of 1,791 persons are missing and 9,203 have been rescued.

The navy reported only that "a flaming mass of sea" was sighted in the Gulf of Mexico after the torpedo attack there. No distress call had been received from the ship in question.

Navy officers said they had no doubt the ship was torpedoed altho there was no concrete evidence of the manner of attack. Eighteen of the 33 officers and men lost were Texans.

Four Days in Lifeboat.

Ten seamen and a white Spitz dog escaped the Caribbean sinking, in which 28 lost their lives. They traveled 320 miles in a lifeboat in four days until a United States patrol plane spotted them and sent a surface patrol vessel to pick them up.

"There was a terrific blast when the torpedo struck and the ship started going down like a rock," said Ross De Long, 23 year old water tender.

"It must have sunk in 45 seconds—not over a minute at the most. By the time I got on deck, the water was pouring in and I jumped and swam like hell to get away from the suction as it sank."

De Long and his fellow survivors said they clung at first to floating oil drums and other bits of wreckage, until a capsized lifeboat came their way. They righted it with great difficulty and "Baby," the dog, was the first survivor put aboard. The others clambered in, hoisted an American flag, and set out for the nearest land, almost 400 miles away.

11 Killed on Other Craft.

The small ship torpedoed in the Atlantic May 18 "sank like a rock within 10 minutes after a single torpedo hit her," according to J. Stauber, the first engineer, of the Bronx. He said 10 men were killed by the explosion of the torpedo and an 11th was so severely injured that he died several days later. Twenty-nine men were rescued.

Stauber praised the chief officer, B. Fletcher of Brooklyn, saying it was his vigilance that prevented more lives from being lost.

U-Boat Spares a Crew.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, June 28 (AP).—A submarine reported to have been one of the enemy raiders which shelled oil refineries on the Island of Curacao several weeks ago sank the Dominican schooner Nueva Altagracia, June 16, it was reported here today.

The captain, José Hernandez, said his craft was sent down 85 miles northeast of Curacao. He said the U-boat halted the schooner, ordered his crew of seven and himself aboard the submersible, took her food stores, and then blew her up with explosives.

Two hours later the eight men were put aboard the Dominican sloop Comercio, which took them to Curacao. Hernandez said the submarine forced the Comercio to jettison half her cargo to make room for the eight.

He said the submarine had SV-59 painted on the sides of a slightly damaged conning tower.

ACTION IS DEMANDED.

In Washington yesterday demands of congressional leaders for a curb on the mounting depredations of raiding U-boats became more insistent as the repeated promises of officials to take effective steps were recalled. Details on page 7.

GERMANS OPEN THIRD DRIVE ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Strike from Kursk, South of Moscow.

MOSCOW, June 29 [Monday] (AP).—The Germans have opened a third major summer front with an offensive from the key strongpoint of Kursk, 280 miles south of Moscow, while pouring more and more men against the Russian defenses in the Kharkov and Sevastopol battles, the Russians reported early today.

[The Germans apparently launched their new drive from strong entrenchments from which the Red army never was able to dislodge them during its great counteroffensive of last winter and early spring.]

"During June 28, in the Kursk direction, fighting commenced against the German troops who had gone over to the offensive," a soviet communique said.

Battle Moves Northward.

Kursk, strategically important, is on the Moscow-Crimean railroad. It is about 125 miles north of Kharkov. The report of the new fighting is evidence that the German high command is progressively putting on pressure in a northward trend.

Kursk province, a predominantly agricultural region just north of the Ukraine, is cut by numerous river and stream valleys. The Germans swarmed into it in their great Donetz basin drive last fall and on last Nov. 3 announced the capture of the city of Kursk.

The city, whose prewar population was 100,000, is on a line with Stalino, Kharkov, Orel, and Moscow, and was important for its railway communications, artificial rubber factory, and cartridge and anti-tank gun works.

The Red forces destroyed 384 enemy planes last week against soviet losses of 171 planes, the communique reported.

As the siege of Sevastopol went into its 25th day, the Russians declared that the "historic defenders" of that torn Crimean port "are repulsing furious enemy attacks." In one sector alone the Germans "succeeded in somewhat pressing our units."

Repulse 16 Nazi Attacks.

"On all other sectors the enemy attacks were repulsed with enormous losses to him," the communique added. One unit alone was said to have thrown back 16 enemy attacks in three days.

The Germans have announced that the operations on the Kharkov front have been successfully concluded, but Russian battlefield dispatches said the Red army was counterattacking heavily in several areas and forcing the Germans to retreat.

These reports said the German push thru Kupyansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, had been halted.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, said guerrillas in the Leningrad area had killed more than 7,000 German officers and men in a recent unspecified period during which 400 populated places in three districts covering 1,000 square miles were recaptured.

Claim 32,759 Men Captured.

BERLIN, June 28 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The destruction of the 2d soviet army and parts of the 52d and 59th Russian armies and the capture of 32,759 prisoners and a quantity of guns and material were announced today by the German high command in a special communique. The Germans asserted the Russian forces were encircled in the Volkhov front south of Leningrad after months of fighting.

"The casualties suffered by the soviets are many times as high as the number of prisoners," the announcement said.

The Russians succeeded in crossing the frozen Volkhov river north of Lake Ilmen and driving a deep wedge into the German defenses last February, the high command announced.

Then German troops, supported by formations of Spanish, Dutch, and Flemish volunteers and the Nazi air force, cut off these armies from the rear communications in the succeeding fighting, pressed them closer and closer together, and "today finally destroyed them," the high command added.

The high command announced that German and Rumanian troops had captured several strongly fortified heights at Sevastopol and forced the Russians to withdraw from "an important defensive sector."

DIGEST OF NEWS FROM FIGHTING FRONTS OF WORLD

Latest war developments:

China's new air force, manned by fledgling Chinese flyers under the tutelage of veteran American airmen, sank two Japanese warships in the Yangtze and attacked Japanese ground forces in eastern Kiangsi province. A Japanese warship and three transports were sunk in a raid on Hankow. Chinese ground forces recaptured Linhsien, in Honan province.

Germans opened a new drive in Russia, taking the offensive in the Kursk sector, 280 miles south of Moscow and 125 miles north of Kharkov. Sevastopol's defenders repulsed new German attacks.

The battle for Egypt raged in the desert southwest of Matruh and the main allied positions were reported holding. The British counterattacked axis forces which by-passed some positions west of Matruh. Axis communiques claim that some of their forces had reached a position on the coast road 19 miles east of Matruh.

British bombers made the second heavy raid in three nights on Bremen, German submarine base.

Japs' Midway Loss: 10 Ships and 275 Planes

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., June 28 (AP).—At least 10 Japanese ships were sunk in the battle of Midway, including four aircraft carriers, and at least eight others damaged, the navy announced today in a summary which made the Japanese losses even more staggering than as at first reported.

Sunk besides the carriers were two 8,500 ton cruisers, three destroyers, and one or more transport or cargo vessels. A fourth destroyer was listed as probably sunk.

3 Battleships Damaged.

Damaged were two or three battleships, one of them severely, three or four heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, and four transport or cargo vessels. Another transport or cargo vessel was listed as probably sunk.

Destroyed with the carriers were about 275 planes, together with their crews.

The statement was the navy's first on the battle fought in the mid-Pacific early this month. Most of the losses had become known piecemeal, but the announcement sharply contrasted with the tally of June 10, several days after the battle. At that time enemy losses were listed as two and possibly three carriers and one destroyer sunk, and three battleships and 8 to 11 other ships damaged.

Two of Carriers Large.

The carriers sunk were named in the navy's statement as the Akagi and Kaga, large ships of 26,900 tons, and the Soryu and Kiryu of 10,050 tons, according to Jane's list of fighting ships.

American ship losses in the battle have been listed as one destroyer sunk and one carrier damaged.

HITLER GETS SUIT TORN AND CAN'T GET A NEW ONE!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 28.—How to get a new suit for Hitler was worrying a Newcastle man today.

He is Arthur Greenhalgh, proprietor of a waxworks museum. Yesterday a man rushed into Greenhalgh's museum, took a healthy swing at the model of Hitler and rushed out again. Hitler went down for the count, in the process tearing his suit and cap.

"Now I'm stumped," Greenhalgh wailed. "I haven't any ration coupons to take care of Der Fuehrer."

Babe Herman Couldn't Tie This: Assist on a Home Run

New Berlin, Pa., June 28 (AP).—Slugger L. Bauers hit a baseball in a semi-pro game today and the result was a home run for him and an assist for the left fielder. The ball hit the top of the fence, came down on the fielder's head, then disappeared over the wall. Technically the fielder cannot be given an assist, but even Babe Herman never had such an experience.

MAIN POSITIONS INTACT AS AXIS RENEWS BATTLE

Tank Melee Hides Tide of Combat.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28 (AP).—The battle for Egypt raged furiously in the desert cauldron southwest of Matruh today with the reënforced allied army holding its main positions against the mechanized might of the axis Africa corps in a wild mêlée.

The battle was joined by the full forces of both sides Saturday afternoon, continued thruout the night, and was renewed with redoubled energy at dawn today.

Out of the confusion of thundering artillery and clanking tanks, it was impossible to tell how the tide of battle was turning or in what direction the milling masses of men and metal were moving.

[A dispatch from London early today said that newspapers there viewed the British situation in Egypt as serious.]

Artillery and Tanks Duel.

The fighting, extremely fluid in character, consisted largely of duels between artillery and tanks. Thus far there has been comparatively little pitched fighting between opposing tanks.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, director of the axis thrust toward Alexandria and Suez, struck with the full weight of three armored divisions backed by infantry and artillery against the British 8th army.

Some positions west of Matruh were by-passed but the main allied positions held firmly intact. The British launched a counterattack against the by-passing axis forces.

British Tell of Battle.

The official British communique summed up the opening phases of the fighting, some 115 miles inside Egypt and 165 miles from the vital naval base at Alexandria. It said:

"Our forces closed with the enemy yesterday and heavy fighting followed all day. Enemy armored forces which have by-passed our position west of Matruh were met by our battle troops. Some of our armored forces attacked enemy armored forces west of Matruh. The battle continues."

[The Italian communique said the axis army had reached a position on the coast road about 19 miles beyond Matruh and that several hundred prisoners were captured and "several dozen" tanks and a number of batteries were destroyed. The Italians also acknowledged that two of their generals had fallen on Egyptian soil. The Germans said only that their troops "successfully continued fighting in the Matruh area."]

U. S. Bombers Join Fight.

Huge United States air force B-24 Liberator bombers were being flown here for the desert battle. So far the great four-motored planes have struck mainly at Bengazi and Tobruk. None has been lost in the desert so far.

There has been considerable air fighting over the Matruh area with low level attacks on enemy tanks and transport columns. One column was attacked on the coast road between Sidi Barrani and Matruh in which 32 tanks were destroyed.

Allied bombers "struck heavily at the enemy in and behind the battle area" last night, an RAF communique said. The RAF raised from 12 to 19 the number of axis planes destroyed over the battle area Friday, and listed two more shot down yesterday. Enemy landing fields—particularly the base at Derna—were strafed at low level, and an axis supply ship was bombed and left burning off Tobruk. The RAF said axis planes raided British positions, behind the lines between Bir el Arab and Daba, 75 miles beyond Matruh.

Use Mobile Artillery.

Military experts refused to speculate on the outcome of the battle but declared that undoubtedly extensive and decisive action was in progress.

The "battle groups" which met the German armored forces were described by a military commentator as forces of guns and other arms which can be maneuvered swiftly to meet armored or infantry attack. Thus it appeared that Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie was using mobile artillery as a screening force to blunt the spearhead of the German assault.

DISCLOSE HOW NAZI SUB SPIES WERE TRAPPED

Citizens Are Told of $270 'Bribe' to Coast Guard.

captors pondered what to do with him. They expressed the fear that if they killed him his disappearance would cause an intensive search which would probably result in discovery of his body and of the cache of explosives. The inspiration to bribe him to silence appeared logical to Nazi minds, it was said.

Tell of Vengeance Threat.

The offer of $270 was accompanied by a threat that Nazi fifth columnists would take vengeance on him and his family if he talked, according to the story. The coast guardsman gave a convincing demonstration of his willingness to keep silent, it was said, and the relieved Nazis released him.

Hurrying back to his station, the coast guardsman at once turned in the money and reported what had happened. The next day the sand dunes were swarming with FBI men and a systematic manhunt was under way.

FBI officials said tonight the manhunt is still under way and that additional arrests are still to come. It was indicated definitely, however, that all persons who landed from U-boats have been picked up. These include the four who landed June 13 on Amagansett beach and four others who landed four days later on Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla.

Sabotage Efforts Fail.

Not a single act of sabotage was accomplished by the Nazis, according to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI, altho the last arrest among the eight did not take place until late Saturday in Chicago.

Intensification of the coastal patrol to guard against further attempts to land sabotage agents on our coasts was announced by Hoover.

Among accomplices of the eight men seized, some are regarded as definite "associates" of the Nazi agents who may have been planning to participate with them in the sabotage program for which they were specially trained. Others seized were casual acquaintances, it was said, and some of this latter group may later be released.

Earl J. Connolly of the FBI, acting as spokesman for that organization here tonight, did not reveal the number of arrests.

Had $170,000 Funds.

He said an additional $20,000 has been found in the effects of the saboteurs, bringing to nearly $170,000 in American currency the fund the men brought with them to be used in hiring traitors and aids here and in the purchase of destructive chemicals. Connolly also said the men were equipped with counterfeit United States social security cards and draft registration cards printed in Germany.

Details of how the saboteurs conducted themselves in the interval between their landing and arrest were withheld by the FBI except for a statement that the eight men tried to "catch up on their eating" while in New York and Chicago.

Connolly said restaurants in Times square in New York and in the Chicago loop were frequented by the Nazi agents.

The two saboteurs arrested in Chicago are Herbert Haupt, 22 years old, and Herman Neubauer, 32. The other six are George John Dasch, 39, leader of the group; Ernst Peter Burger, 36; Heinrich Harn Heinck, 35; Robert Quirin, 34; Edward John Kerling, 34, and Werner Thiel, 34.

PREMIER ACTS TO CURB AXIS 5TH COLUMNISTS

CAIRO, Egypt, June 28 (AP).—Premier Mustafa Nahas Pasha, in his capacity as military governor, took steps today to combat axis fifth column activity behind the lines of the battle of Egypt. He issued a proclamation ordering citizens to report immediately to the nearest police station any of the following:

Premier Mustafa Nahas Pasha.

Landing of planes at places other than at official airfields;

The presence of any one who seemed to have entered the country illegally or who might be an escaped internee or war prisoner; and

The spreading of rumors.

Rumor mongers will be tried by military courts within 48 hours of arrest. Informers were promised rewards if their information results in convictions.

SOUNDS WARNING TO GUARD PLANTS FROM SABOTAGE

The arrest in Chicago of two accused German saboteurs drew warning yesterday from Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director of the Illinois state council of defense, that industrialists—and especially those engaged in war work—should make careful plans to protect their properties.

Gen. Parker also urged all community defense councils to be thoroly organized and prepared.

Meanwhile Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, sent a letter to the heads of all the city's vital services asking them to read carefully accounts of the saboteurs' plans and to submit reports on what they thought might have been attempted in Chicago and how such possible sabotage best could be prevented.

4 Germans Seized by FBI at Camp in New Jersey

Newark, N. J., June 28. [Special].—The arrest of two men and two women, all German nationals, at Camp Bergwald, a recreation center for German-Americans, was announced tonight by E. E. Conroy, head of the New York and New Jersey field offices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Conroy denied the raid was connected with the roundup of associates of the eight saboteurs.

FIANCEE TELLS HER SUSPICION OF HITLER SPY

Haupt Is Described as a Talkative 'Phony.'

Mrs. Gerda Melind, 24 years old, who was to have been married next week to Herbert Hans Haupt, confessed German spy and saboteur, told yesterday of her reunion Tuesday with Haupt after a year's mystery absence and of her suspicion that something was wrong with him.

She met Haupt, 22 years old, former ROTC cadet, about three and a half years ago in Harms park. They fell in love, she said, and while not actually engaged had discussed marriage. They went dancing in Haus Vaterland, a Bund headquarters and tavern at 3857 North Western avenue, since closed, rode horseback, and saw one or two German movies in the bundhaus.

Vague on California Trip.

About a year ago, she said, Haupt suddenly announced that he wanted to visit California. He was a bit vague on details, she said, and after a postcard from St. Louis she heard no more.

On Tuesday Haupt's mother, Erma, of 2234 Fremont street, telephoned the loop beauty shop where Mrs. Melind, a widow, is employed, saying she had news, and suggesting that they have luncheon together. They did so.

"She told me: 'Herbert's back, but he doesn't say anything. I don't know where he's been, all I know is that he's terribly nervous.'"

"I saw him at dinner that night in his parents' home, and he was nervous all right. I thought maybe it was because he hadn't registered for the draft, but he told me he'd registered that day. I asked where he'd been and he said only that he'd gone thru a lot.' I asked him how he came back and he didn't say anything.

Date for Marriage Set.

"He called me Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, but I wouldn't see him. I had a hunch there was something wrong, and I said I'd see him Saturday, figuring if there was something wrong they'd have him by then. He had mentioned marriage Tuesday, and we'd agreed to be married this week."

Mrs. Melind said Haupt was a great reader, concentrating mostly on philosophy.

"He was a great talker, too," she said. "You've no idea how that fellow can talk. He can talk you blue in the face and you think he's telling you something, but at the end he's told you nothing."

Here Mrs. Stuckman, Mrs. Melind's mother, broke in to say that she never had liked Haupt.

"He was a fourflusher, a liar. I hate people like that," the older woman said.

"He was known for being a fourflusher," Mrs. Melind agreed.

Hears Arrest from Parents.

She added she went to the Haupt home Saturday night and that altho the Haupts told her their son had been arrested they insisted they did not know why. She said she didn't learn why until operatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation questioned her this morning. FBI agents stood guard around the Haupt home last night while others were inside.

Her father, Herman Stuckman, German-born janitor, had his ideas about the sabotage plot.

"That was a good catch," he said.

GEN. MANNERHEIM REPAYS HITLER VISIT AT FRONT

BERLIN, June 28 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finnish commander, has paid a return visit to Adolf Hitler at the German-Russian front headquarters, it was announced officially today.

Mannerheim was accompanied by his chief of staff, Lieut. Gen. Tuompi, by Gen. E. R. Furth, who commands the Nazi troops in Finland, and by several high Finnish officers. They reached Hitler's headquarters Saturday. Mannerheim was also a guest of Reichmarshal Hermann Goering at his headquarters, a German communique said. [It was the first mention in months of Goering—head of the German air forces—at the Russian front.]

NORWEGIAN HOME PICNIC ATTENDED BY 3,000 PERSONS

More than 3,000 persons attended the annual picnic of the Norwegian Lutheran Children's home, 6000 Canfield road, yesterday. Besides taking part in traditional picnic games and races, picnickers heard a talk by Ivan Jacobsen, clerk in the American consulate in Oslo, Norway, at the time of the German invasion. Jacobsen was a prisoner in Norway for seven months.

1,067 MORE MEN NEEDED TO MEET JUNE NAVY QUOTA

Recruiters Are Confident of Attaining Goal.

The score in the navy's drive to recruit 10,000 men in the Chicago area by July stood at 8,933 yesterday—only 42 more than the Saturday total—but recruiting officials were confident that many prospective recruits were spending a happy Sabbath on the beaches or in parks yesterday and will show up today and tomor, row, a thousand strong, to push the drive over the top.

Navy public relations sent out a success story yesterday on Charles William McKnight, a former newspaper man, who finally has fulfilled his desire to become a line officer. McKnight, who during his college days shipped as a seaman on an army transport, enlisted in the navy a year ago after failing because of his age in an attempt to enter the midshipmen's school.

Sworn in as Ensign.

His desire was for active duty, but officials noticed on his enlistment papers that he had worked as a newspaper man for the City News bureau after graduation from Lake Forest college and he was assigned to the public relations office of the navy, a desk job.

Saturday, however, he was sworn in as an ensign by Lieut. David C. Zimmerman and within a few days will leave for training as a gun crew commander assigned to a merchant ship, his job to protect the ship against marauding submarines. McKnight is 29 years old and lives at 3648 Pine Grove avenue.

Confident of Reaching Quota.

Lieut. David N. Goldenson, in charge of the Chicago area recruiting, said that he was confident that Chicago will not fail in reaching her quota.

He announced that first auditions for an all-Negro navy band will be held at 9 a. m. today in room 750 on the 7th floor of the federal courthouse. All applicants must pass mental and physical tests and must be able to read music. He asked that each prospective musician bring his instrument.

Present plans call for the band to receive preliminary training at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and to be sent en masse to San Francisco for a final polish.

Realizes Ambition

GERMANS STILL BEWILDERED BY WAR WITH RUSSIA

'Great Victories' Turn Into Death Notices.

[This dispatch by Mr. Small, former Berlin correspondent of The Chicago Tribune, was written after his arrival in Lisbon, Portugal, from an internment camp in Germany. Because of the difficulty in getting it sent from Lisbon he was forced to file it from a friendly port while en route to a new assignment.]

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, June 15 [Delayed].—The general public of Germany, it is safe to say, has been disappointed with the Russian campaign and is left puzzled, wondering if it has not been misled.

The bewilderment began with the attack on June 22, 1941, for which the people were not prepared by any advance propaganda. They could not understand why gratuitously Germany was taking on a new and gigantic enemy when the victory over Britain was still not won. But when the die was cast the common expectation was that the Russians would be a push-over and the campaign would end quickly with total victory.

Disillusionment came at once. Three weeks elapsed before the general staff issued the first sensational communique of big victories but the Germans gasped when they looked at the maps and noticed that the places mentioned had names like Bialystok and German Lemberg, when they expected to hear that Leningrad had fallen and the Germans were practically at Moscow.

Russians Always "Trapped."

Propaganda officials, always sensitive in Germany to currents of public opinion, began explaining how enormous the victories were in view of the circumstances. Thereafter, it seemed to be the policy to issue an average of one special communique weekly in which the theme always was the huge number of Russians caught in a "kessel" [encirclement or trap] and being "annihilated."

This "trap" became popular with amateur strategists all over Germany. In the order announced the big "traps" were Bialystok-Minsk, Kovno-Lemberg, Kovno-Jitomar, Jitomar-Uman, and Kiev-Poltava.

People did not doubt the general staff's word that a big victory had been won, but they noted with dismay the enormous distances still remaining to the Caucasus and the Urals, not to mention Vladivostok. The disillusionment would be complete two days later when regular communiques indicated clearly that huge numbers of Russians were still fighting not far behind the points where the special communique had said they had been annihilated.

In September the word was spread by undercover methods that the end was near—only one or two more "traps" and the Russians would be out of the war. Distances and cities—such was the whispered word—did not count; the important object was smashing the Russian army.

Resistance Is Admitted.

This idea was perhaps sincerely held in some high nonmilitary circles. Early in October Reich Press Chief Dr. Otto Dietrich, after a trip to the front where he talked with the high command, addressed the foreign press, and solemnly asserted that the Russian resistance was broken and tho the Russians might be capable of a few more battles and considerable guerrilla warfare, the German army had done its main task and the rest would be a matter of detail. This was after a huge German victory in a "trap" southeast of Kiev where they rushed forward almost to Kharkov thru Poltava and apparently put Marshal Semeon Budenny's forces out of action—for good, as they thought.

Dietrich, I think, believed what he said, but not long thereafter it was evident to the German public that Dietrich was prematurely optimistic. The admission had to be made that there was determined Russian resistance around Kharkov and in the Crimea. Then came the reverse at Rostov, the first serious setback the Germans had suffered at the hands of the Russians. By that time the dreadful truth could no longer be concealed that the German army would have to dig in on a defensive line and stick it out thru the Russian winter.

At this point my first hand knowledge of German opinion about the Russian campaign ceases, as I was arrested Dec. 10 and interned thereafter. Even so, evidence of widespread disillusionment seeped thru the guarded doors at Bad Nauheim. Newspapers came in, and this controled press was far more informative to the careful reader than most Americans imagine.

You can learn, for instance, on what points the Nazi government feels uneasy and wants to reassure the public. All thru the winter the effort was evident to make the Germans proud of their heroic soldiers who were enduring unimaginable hardships, and thus the hardships were admitted since they couldn't be concealed by forbidding all letters from soldiers at the front.

Then there was that telltale page of paid death notices—it was the back page in most and next to the back in the Voelkischer Beobachter.

19 MORE CZECHS SENTENCED TO DEATH BY NAZIS

BERLIN, June 28 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—A German court martial sentenced 10 more persons to death in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, and nine in Bruenn today on charges of approving the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, or advocating support for Heydrich's killers, the German radio reported. Among those sentenced in Prague were the mayor and council of a city in eastern Bohemia.

[The latest estimate of the Czech government-in-exile in London last Thursday was that 382 Czech patriots had been executed since the attack on Heydrich, Gestapo leader, exclusive of the complete destruction of the villages of Lidice and Lezaky. About 350 men of Lidice were believed executed.]

10,000 APPLAUD JOHNSTON TALE OF NAVAL FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Davenport, Ia., June 28.—Eyes were tear filled and throats were roughened by cheers here this afternoon as 10,000 folk from the tricities and eastern Iowa heard from Stanley Johnston, THE TRIBUNE'S distinguished foreign correspondent, the story of what "their boys" had done in the great Coral sea battle and in the ensuing fight to save the gallant old Lexington. They were gathered in the Municipal stadium to honor eight Lexington survivors from Davenport, Moline, and Muscatine and to wish good fortune to 60 new recruits from this area who took their oath of allegiance.

The eight survivors were as follows: Lieutenants Blair Johnson and Dan Dierks and Seamen Roland C. Thode, William B. Kelley, and Robert S. Hynson, all of Davenport; Donald Albers, Moline, and George Burrows and George Wollett, Muscatine.

Johnston's talk was preceded by a parade lasting one hour and ceremonies in which military and naval officials of this area were introduced.

GREEKS BATTLE ON AGAINST FOE, TSOUDEROS SAYS

Prime Minister Emmanuel Tsouderos of the Greek government in exile yesterday brought Chicagoans a factual report of the never-ending resistance his countrymen in Greece are making against Fascist terrorism.

Premier Tsouderos.

Tsouderos, who speaks at the Morrison hotel this morning before the Pancretan Society of America, said that Greeks recently derailed an Athens to Larissa train, killing numerous Germans. Students, he said, are holding increasingly frequent rallies to protest against the occupation, while a number of prominent Greek citizens are helping to hide British soldiers and sailors stranded in their country.

In retaliation, Tsouderos asserted to a group of Greek society leaders, the Nazis were limiting imports consistently, with the result that 500 Greeks were dying of starvation each day. The Greek spirit was mounting, according to the prime minister, in direct proportion to the number of Nazi acts of cruelty.

AMERICAN JEEPS GO IN SERVICE ON RUSSIAN FRONT

WITH THE RED ARMY, June 28 (AP).—The American jeep has met the Russian mud and the situation is well in hand. The tough little car has joined its big brothers—American tanks and planes—in service on the eastern front.

"How do you like the jeep?" one driver was asked.

"Zamechatelno," answered the Russian. That's the equivalent of "swell."

The jeeps have been in Russia for several months getting used to the country and being distributed all along the front, but today was the first time the censor would allow disclosure of their presence. One artillery regiment visited used them principally for carrying personnel and anti-tank guns.

NEW U-BOAT HAS GUNLOCK TO AID IN QUICK FIRING

LONDON, June 29 [Monday]—(AP).—The News Chronicle quoted a member of the crew of a British ship today as saying that a submarine which destroyed his vessel was equipped with a special gunlock from which gunners wearing strange helmets covering face and head emerged ready to fire.

The News Chronicle's naval commentator said submarine gunlocks are not new, but in all previously known types gunners must get to their posts thru the conning tower.

EAST'S NEW GAS RATIONING PLAN CALLED 'FARCE'

Asbury Park, N. J., June 28 (AP).—The permanent coupon rationing system for gasoline, scheduled to go into effect in eastern coast states July 22, was criticized today as a "farce" by Sol A. Herzog, general counsel of the Eastern Seaboard Retail Gasoline Dealers conference.

Herzog, attending a meeting called by dealers seeking relief from a motor fuel drought that had pushed more than half the automobiles in this area off the highways this weekend, said the new rationing system would not be any improvement over the old.

Earlier, Dr. John W. Frey director of marketing for the Office of the Petroleum Coördinator, indicated general gasoline rationing would be extended to neighboring states very shortly.

MAKE ALEUTIANS A SECOND FRONT, CHINESE DEMAND

Air Offensive Would 'Make the Japs Squirm.'

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 28.—A plea for the opening of a second front against Japan, which he declared is "more than feasible right now," was sounded today by Lieut. Col. Chih Wang, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's liaison officer attached to allied general headquarters in the southwest Pacific.

Wang advocated air attacks from the Aleutian Islands, which if pressed home repeatedly "could make the Japanese squirm." Such an offensive would divert the enemy's attention from both India and China, Wang pointed out.

Wang expressed the opinion that blows from the Aleutians would have a more immediate effect than an offensive from Australia, where enemy held island bases would make progress slow and hazardous.

The 36 year old Chinese officer, who received his military training at West Point, urged that 500 bombers with fighter escort be sent to China to be used in conjunction with the offensive from the Aleutians.

"Let America or Britain give us these planes and you'll soon see the scene changing in China," he said.

Seek Asia Communications.

The Japanese fear of an Aleutians offensive was the reason for their activity in that area, he said.

The Japanese strategy at present is not to knock China out of the war, Chiang's emissary believes. They plan to control all communications along the eastern Asia front from Manchuria to Singapore and westward to India. It the enemy succeeds he will have a great east Asian route linking Manchuria with India via Indo-China and Burma, which will greatly facilitate his strategy in joining hands with the axis in the middle east.

At the same time the enemy would have in his possession most of the Chinese airdromes from which the allies could launch an offensive against Japan. The Japanese know, he asserted, that if the other allies can be defeated they can turn to China later for final settlement of the "China incident."

Also Need Pilots.

In addition to bombers and fighters, it would be necessary for America or Britain to send pilots, Wang said. Chinese pilots are being trained at bases thruout China and then sent to America for further training. However, he said, their numbers were not great enough for a large scale air offensive.

Altho emphasizing that planes are China's most urgent need, Wang asserted the most important issue is reopening of the Burma road.

The single air service linking Chungking and Calcutta, India, is the only real contact with the outside world.

Road China's Only Hope.

"All future hopes of reopening the Burma road now center on India," he said. "Should India or a substantial part of it get into Japanese hands, cutting thru would be hopeless. China's only hope of rising to the aggressive from its stubborn and deathless defensive is to have the Burma road opened again."

If the Japs succeed in seizing rail and other communications in China, they will not only have linked up their India campaign with their troop concentrations in Manchuria—the greatest they possess on the Asian mainland—but will also have overcome the risk of sending transports down the China coast when it was desired to transfer troops from front to front.

"The importance to the allies of the issue in southeastern China cannot be overemphasized," Wang said.

CHINA'S NEW AIR FORCE SINKS TWO JAP WARSHIPS

Inflicts Losses Also on Ground Troops.

CHUNGKING, China, June 28 (AP).—Pilots of China's fledgling air force, flying under the tutelage of veteran American volunteer airmen, in their first offensive activity in nearly five years of war have sunk two Japanese warships in the Yangtze and inflicted enormous losses upon enemy ground forces in eastern Kiangsi, the Chinese reported today.

Elaborating an earlier announcement of these blows, the official Central News agency said Chinese airmen sent the two warships to the bottom last Sunday at Sinti, 65 miles southwest of Hankow in Hupeh province.

Blast Foe's Positions.

Following up this attack, Chinese bombers cascaded explosives on Japanese positions in eastern Kiangsi last Tuesday, inflicting heavy losses.

Winging back to their base, the Chinese blasted a heavy enemy concentration at the Liangchiatu river crossing 10 miles southeast of Nanchang, Kiangsi capital.

On the same front AVG fighter planes converted into bombers raided Hankow, sinking a Japanese warship and three transports.

The Chinese, who up to now have been having to take Japan's indiscriminate air attacks without striking back, saw in their own growing air force fulfillment of United States pledges of aid in the air against the Japanese.

1,000 Jap Casualties.

News of the aerial blows to the invader were coupled with an official announcement of the recapture of Linhsien, in Honan province, last Tuesday. The high command said 1,000 Japanese were slain or wounded in this operation.

Yukan, a town in northeast Kiangsi, was reported also recaptured after a three day battle.

JAP TROOPS AT SALAMAUA AND LAE ARE BOMBED

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 29 [Monday]—(AP).—Allied bombers have made a prolonged raid on Japanese troop dispositions at Lae and Salamaua on the Island of New Guinea, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today. Allied raiders also attacked the wharf area at the New Guinea bases, and bombed Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, headquarters announced.

Report Nazis Order King Leopold to Shift Cabinet

HE'S GOING BACK TO BATAAN FOR 5 GOOD REASONS

Filipino Colonel Here on MacArthur Mission.

A man who lived on rice two months in the foxholes of Bataan, scanning the skies for planes that never came, arrived in Chicago yesterday with one purpose:

To go back to the Philippines as fast as possible to rescue his wife and four sons from the Japanese.

Col. Carlos P. Romulo.

He is Lieut. Col. Carlos P. Romulo, a Filipino who won his rank in battle, at the hands of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Col. Romulo believes he was the last American officer to escape from Bataan.

Fled in Salvaged Plane.

Gen. MacArthur ordered him to leave because the Japanese had set a price upon his head for the anti-Japanese articles he had published in his seven Philippine newspapers. Col. Romulo escaped in a battle wrecked plane salvaged from the sea.

The colonel, 39 years old, was editor and publisher of the Philippines Herald of Manila and six allied newspapers when the Japanese attacked the United States. The son of a man who fought with Aguinaldo, he was in the Philippine army reserve.

Given Rank of Major.

Gen. MacArthur called him into the American army as a major.

Seated in the office of Rotary International with the organization secretary elect, Philip Lovejoy, Col. Romulo told his story.

"On Dec. 29," he said, "the Japanese bombed my newspaper plant, and a business 32 years old went up in smoke. The Japanese carted away my presses and my 29 linotype machines as scrap to Tokio.

"My home in Manila was commandeered by the Japs. I have not heard from my wife and my four sons, the eldest 17 and the youngest 4, since Dec. 31.

Short of Provisions.

"As a member of Gen. MacArthur's staff I traveled often between Bataan and Corregidor. The enemy hammered us continually, and we were short of provisions."

"Did you have meat?" Col. Romulo was asked.

"In the first two months," he said. "We killed monkeys and carabaos. They're Philippine water buffalos. The last two months we lived on a handful of rice a day. The water was bad, from turgid streams at Bataan. After the water plant at Corregidor was destroyed we had coffee made of salt water, with no sugar or cream.

"The Japs raided us 24 hours a day. We lived in foxholes, hoping that American help would come. We watched the skies for American planes.

Supplies Didn't Arrive.

"We almost became cross-eyed watching for American ships to bring us provisions and ammunition. We were fighting for the richest and most powerful country in the world and dying of starvation.

"We had malaria and dysentery, and no medicine. The doctors operated on the wounded without anaesthetics.

"But there was never a whimper from wounded men. Their only thought was to get themselves healed so they could go back to fight.

"Gen. MacArthur made me a lieutenant colonel on the battlefield. I was the last man out of Manila, the last man out of Bataan. Gen. MacArthur left eight of us behind to do demolition work and see that the separated forces got together. He decorated each of us with the silver star for what we did."

Wins Pulitzer Prize.

Col. Romulo, a former vice president of Rotary International, is on his way to Washington, D. C., on a mission for Gen. MacArthur. The colonel will visit New York before he returns to receive a Pulitzer prize for interpretive correspondence — the writing which brought the Japanese price on his head.

He is a Columbia university graduate, upon whom Notre Dame university conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws in 1935. Gen. MacArthur is his hero. MacArthur's men are not Americans, not Filipinos, to Col. Romulo. They are Filamericans.

He walks with a jaunty step, but his youthful countenance is worn by battle. Friends call him Rommy.

Asked if he had been wounded, he answered:

"We don't talk about that. You can see all you need to know in my face."

BREMEN BOMBED BY BIG RAF FORCE IN REPEAT RAID

Rekindle Fires Started in 1,000 Plane Attack.

LONDON, June 28 (AP).—The royal air force rekindled the smouldering fires of devastated Bremen overnight in the second massive assault within three days upon that base of submarines prowling the Atlantic and today the word in London was: "There can't be much left of Bremen."

The air ministry, without disclosing just how many planes participated in this return raid upon Germany's second largest port, said it was made by a "strong force," the same phrase used to describe obliteration raids by more than 1,000 bombers Thursday night against Bremen and earlier against Cologne and Essen.

New big fires were added to those still burning from the last attack Thursday night, the air ministry said of this 95th RAF assault of the war upon the once thriving German port and shipbuilding center.

Blast Northwest Germany.

Night raiding British squadrons blasted other places in northwest Germany, air fields and war plants of inland and coastal France and Nazi shipping in the channel. The Lannion airdrome, in Brittany, came in for a particularly strong attack. One enemy ship was bombed and left aflame off Cherbourg.

The operations cost the British 11 planes—9 bombers and 2 fighters—the air ministry announced. The German radio claimed destruction of 14 RAF craft.

Nazi raiders struck overnight at a town in southwest England on the Bristol channel and a single attacker loosed a stick of bombs which caused several casualties and considerable damage in a south coast town.

An enemy bomber was destroyed during Saturday nights raids.

Two German raiders were destroyed tonight, it was reported authoritatively, during a raid against southwest England. Fires started by the bombers were brought under control.

Tell of Damage to Germany.

Stockholm dispatches told meanwhile of heavy damage inflicted upon Germany's war plants by the systematic British raids on Hitler's big industrial centers.

As at Cologne and Essen, these accounts said Thursday night's 1,000 odd plane attack on Bremen left great factories in ruins. Last night's attack there thus followed the now familiar RAF pattern of a second potent hammering designed as a "coup de grace."

One German newspaper reaching Stockholm, the Rheinisch Westphalische Zeitung, carried a notice from Dr. Albert Speer, minister of munitions and general director of building, that many factories had been so badly damaged in German cities that local facilities were unable to make repairs.

War industries in and around Cologne suffered "enormous damage," Speer said. At Bremen, he recounted that "large destruction" was inflicted upon shipbuilding yards, the big Focke-Wulf aircraft plant and harbor structures.

Army Bomber Crashes in Ohio; Four Are Killed

Dayton, O., June 28 (AP).—Four army flyers were killed late today when a two motored bomber they were flying crashed into a hayfield about 25 miles south of here. A Patterson field spokesman said two officers and two non-commissioned men were killed, but declined to disclose their identities.

Cathedral Damaged by Bombs

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

British workmen clearing debris of buildings wrecked in German bombing of Canterbury on June 1. The famous cathedral (in background) escaped a direct hit, but it nevertheless suffered heavy damage.

WRECK CRADLE OF ANGLICAN RITE AT CANTERBURY

Cathedral, Churches, Schools Bombed.

LONDON, June 28 (AP).—The German air raid June 1 on Canterbury, cradle of Anglican Christianity, damaged the famous cathedral, destroyed several historic buildings and laid waste much of the residential section, it was disclosed today.

The damage to the cathedral was estimated at many thousands of dollars, altho the edifice escaped a direct hit by high explosives, which, however, wrecked the modern library and deanery, and battered Kings school, England's oldest public school.

Somerset Maugham, the novelist, is perhaps the best known living graduate of the school, which served as the background for some of the early scenes in his novel "Of Human Bondage."

Windows Blown Out.

Hundreds of the cathedral windows were blown out. The whole area was littered with rubble and shops and homes in the vicinity were set afire. The ancient stained glass had been removed from the cathedral at the outbreak of the war.

Incendiaries fell on the cathedral roof but were smothered before serious fire could start. St. Augustine's chair, on which archbishops for centuries sat during the enthronement ceremony, was undamaged, but St. George's church was destroyed.

Elizabeth's Hotel Burned.

In the town itself the Royal Fountain hotel, 800 years old, where Queen Elizabeth stayed, was burned out, as well as several places with Dickensian associations.

Prominent residents of the town said morale never faltered. One of them said: "I still wonder at the perfect calm and courage of the people of Canterbury. Hundreds of people are homeless, but the only anxiety expressed was 'how much can I do for somebody else?'"

M. P. BLAMES MEN WHO DON'T KNOW JOBS FOR BRITISH SUPPLY LAG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—W. D. Kendall, Independent, one of the signers of the motion to censure Prime Minister Winston Churchill, told his constituents at Grantham today that "we have enough facilities in this country to equip our troops with the finest weapons in the world, but we won't get those supplies while there are men in power who do not know their jobs."

He said men should be chosen for government jobs on their merits and no other consideration.

Kendall said that the country possessed the necessary machine tools as well as workers and material to do the job "when we get the right leaders in those industries." He said he would support Prime Minister Churchill if he had to remain prime minister, but would object if Churchill wanted to be the leading airman, soldier, admiral, general, and politician who could do no wrong with a poor team that would not be criticized.

SOVIET OFFICIALS LEAVING TURKEY, BERLIN REPORTS

BERLIN, June 28 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The continuing departure of Russians for home from Ankara, Turkey, in the wake of Ambassador Sergei Alexandrovich Vinogradov was reported today in German dispatches broadcast by the Berlin radio. Vinogradov was said to have left for Moscow last Thursday.

The German dispatches said next to go was the soviet deputy military attaché. Then the wives of members of both the embassy and consulate staffs left Ankara.

Russian-Turkish relations became strained this spring when the Turks arrested two Russians on charges of complicity in a bomb attempt on the life of Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Ankara, last winter. The recall of Vinogradov followed within a few days the Turkish conviction of the Russians.

2D FRONT NEEDS BIG LAND FORCE, LONDON IS TOLD

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—Announcement of the presence of a strong American air force in the British Isles on the same day that Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned from his conferences with President Roosevelt is accepted as an indication that the beginning of the first phase of the second front can be looked for shortly. This, observers here said today, must be prefaced by obtaining air mastery over territory where bridgeheads are to be established.

The strength of the American air force is a military secret, but the fact that high ranking generals are here to lead the flyers suggests that the force is considerable. It is taken for granted that the American planes and pilots will participate in ever increasing large scale raids on key points in Germany.

Land Assault Necessary.

The fact that there has been terrific Nazi aerial and artillery attacks on such limited targets as Leningrad and Sevastopol without totally crippling their economic life has given many cause for skepticism regarding the practicability of reducing Germany to a state of collapse by the same process unless it is followed immediately by a larger scale land assault.

One correspondent with a mathematical turn of mind has said that in order to subject Germany to the same intensity of attack which the tiny island of Malta endured in one month it would necessitate an air force of between 3 and 4 million bombers.

Malta is still functioning as not only a defensive but an offensive base in the Mediterranean despite the fact that it must rely upon convoys for supplies. Germany has occupied much Russian territory, including the richest industrial center with an area greater than all France, experts point out, but the Russians are still resisting.

Urge No Second Front Delay.

By the same token it might be possible for the allies either to destroy by bombing or occupy all German territory up to the Rhine without producing a decision in the war, it is said.

These arguments are met by supporters of a second front now with the reply that the purpose of a second front would be to compel the Germans to draw sufficient divisions from Russia to give the soviets military preponderance, which would enable them to smash thru the eastern front. It is contended the second front may not only be impossible but useless if delayed.

Some reports indicate enemy strategy may be geared with the allies' second front attempt. The growing hostile attitude between Japan and Russia is interpreted as revealing that as the allies attempt to relieve German pressure against Russia, Japan may open a second front against Russia.

Altho some experts say they believe the effect of the British defeat in Libya will be to delay the opening of a second front in Europe, others argue it has increased the necessity for it.

Churchill is expected to have something to say on the subject when the house of commons debates a motion to censure the government. The cooling off of criticism of the war effort following the fall of Tobruk is believed to be due to information that the premier will be able to convince parliament and the people that victory is closer than ever. Both Churchill and President Roosevelt have expressed optimism on this score.

The MILWAUKEE ROAD

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

IN STEAM CORNER, IND., POP. 12, THE WAR IS VERY NEAR

It Recalls a Pearl Harbor Victim—and Avengers!

in the ensuing discussions, the subject is the war, for the war is "it" in Steam Corner.

"We're doing all we can in it," Miss Daisy tells you flatly. "Talk to any of our farmers."

What does Willie Coats think? Willie Coats has three boys in it and is about to be reduced to a single handed conquest of his 330 acres. West on the dirt side road to the T, across the second railroad and to the left is the big white frame house of Willie Coats. Feather beds are airing on its immaculate porch, and the flowering locust is shedding the deep pink flowers of its second blooming.

Mr. Coats isn't home. He is across the road and up a lane digging thistles out of a pasture. He is an amiable, grizzled old farmer, his hat pulled low over his out thrust ears, a pipe clutched in his mouth. He is a prosperous farmer, one who has yet to accept payments from "that three A." "Don't believe in it," he says. "I'm a Republican, I am." The handsome, dark eyed boy helping him is his youngest son, Eugene, 21, who has just enlisted in the army and is home awaiting induction.

"Don't think we don't know a war is on," Mr. Coats says, as he places a conversational foot on a fencepost. "Gene here is my third boy to get in. I says to him, 'Get in it. We got to whip 'em.'

"Whip 'Em Fast!" He Urges.

"That's all there is to it," he continues. "Whip 'em or we'll all be dead—or slaves. We'd be worse than slaves. Don't know what that'd be, but it'd sure be worse. Not for me. I'm too old. But the younger generation and the ones to come. They're the ones that'll suffer. Whip 'em, I says. Whip the Japs and the Nat-sees both and whip 'em fast.

"Yeah," and he lapsed into meditation. "Don't think we don't know it's on. Makes help mighty hard to get. Just can't hardly get farm help. Don't know how we're going to get our harvesting done.

"But we're doing all we can. Doing like every place else, I guess. Buying all the bonds we're able to and donating to the Red Cross. I've donated twice to it. We've overran in this township. Overran. And everybody's putting all he can in war bonds. Just tossing all their savings into them.

"Well, gotta get back to the thistles. Come on," to his last boy at home. "Let's clean 'em up."

Flyer's Mother Knows of War.

What do the Myers think? They have a boy, "Red," who is a naval flying cadet. Their home, a gaunt two story farmhouse with honeysuckle and woodbine densely tangled over its little porch, is a mile or so back down the road. An American flag waves from the porch, and three more flags stand in a window on which are pasted the Red Cross symbol and the blue minuteman of the war bond purchaser.

Mrs. Herman Myers, a kindly gray haired woman with a sure knowledge of all happenings in the township, ensconces herself in a rocker in the living room to tell of the township's war effort. Chromos of "The Harp of the Winds," "The Reapers" and "Sir Galahad" hang on the walls. "Little Women" lies open on a table. On the piano is a large tinted picture of a boy with curly red hair, a delicate face and blue eyes that smile. This is Herman J., who enlisted on Jan 3, his twentieth birthday.

"I believe we are all very conscious of the war," she says reflectively. "We do all we can. We do all we are asked to do. Of course, we haven't suffered. Maybe we should suffer more. I don't know. But things already are hard."

Youths Take Defense Jobs.

Many boys from the township are gone to the war, she explains, reeling off a list of names. Two more have just enlisted in the navy. Many boys have gone to defense factories at Attica and Newport and nearby towns.

She was on the war bond committee and knows that the township exceeded its quota in this as in all fund raising drives. Seventy-five per cent of the families pledged themselves to buy bonds monthly. Twice the township has exceeded its Red Cross quota, and a week ago it exceeded its USO quota.

Farm women are doing their part, too, she says. Already they are burdened with new farm duties, but they still find time to go to nearby Kingman two days a week to sew for the Red Cross. Many knit at home.

"I don't know what else we could do," Mrs. Myers concludes.

Father Left All Alone.

What does Lowell Riley's widowed father think? Lowell has just joined the navy and his father is alone on his farm.

Visitors found him leaning over a bucket with a steaming tea kettle. "I'm just a-buggin' my potatoes," he explains. "Bugs is bad this year. Not raisin' much, anyway. Just about ready to give up.

"The war? Don't believe in war myself." He scowled. "Don't think there's any need for it if things was handled right, but what they need is boys, so I said to Lowell, 'Sure, git in.'"

At this Mr. Riley relaxed in pride.

"The boys is sure a-pilin' in it," he observed. "They're a-pilin' in there plentiful now. That's all we need. Just those boys a-pilin' in. We'll sure whup 'em now."

This is a random cross-section of the crossroads of Steam Corner. Most of the boys are gone, and Steam Corner is right behind them, fighting.

DEATH OF ONE N. SHORE WOMAN STILL MYSTERY

While the mystery surrounding the two violent deaths of North Shore women last week apparently had cleared in the case of Miss Thoried Arna Larson, 24 years old, Highland Park police yesterday said their investigation in the murder of Miss Alta Fulkerson, 36, so far has been unproductive.

Miss Fulkerson, a small woman, was dragged from her bed at 656 Michigan avenue, Highland Park, last Thursday morning. Her assailant took her into some nearby woods, attempted to rape her, and then beat her to death.

A Lake county coroner's jury will decide what charge, if any, will be lodged against Chief Petty Officer Franklin Cathcart III, 24, a Stanford university graduate. It was after a drinking bout with him that Miss Larson, a domstic who lived at 825 Ash street, Waukegan, was fatally injured. Chief Cathcart, an athletic instructor at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, said she fell down 17 steps and was injured. He said he carried her to a wood near Belvidere road and Skokie highway where she was subsequently found. She died a short while later.

MOSCOW, June 29 [Monday]—(AP).—Saboteurs in Germany have derailed two fully loaded trains in eastern Germany, killing many persons, the Moscow radio said today, quoting Stockholm reports.

MERCURY HITS 92 AND CHICAGOANS RUSH TO BEACHES

As the temperature rose to 92 degrees at 2:15 p. m. yesterday, Chicagoans grabbed swimming suits and caps and headed for the beaches. Altho only city beaches are officially open, seekers for relief from the heat crowded both park district and city strands. Water temperature was 68 degrees.

Chicago's all-time temperature high for June 28 was 99.3, reached in 1934. Yesterday's temperature was only 78 degrees at 9 a. m.

Bridle paths were crowded and motorists filled the streets. Highways leading in and out of the northern and southern sections of the city carried the heaviest traffic. Fishermen dangled lines from piers and the coast guard reported scores of boats dotting the lake from Winnetka to South Chicago.

Bermuda Bans Food Imports from Britain

HAMILTON, Berumda, June 28.—The food and supplies control board has banned the import of all foodstuffs except tea from Britain. The United Kingdom was fourth on the list of food suppliers to Bermuda last year, with imports totaling only $216,000. Canada ranked first with $1,108,000, the United States second with $900,000.

Lady, Don't Throw Out Those Waste Kitchen Fats! Send Them to War!

Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fat! For waste fats make glycerine. And glycerine makes explosives that drive millions of shells for the United Nations. We need great quantities of extra glycerine to carry on the war effort. And you women in your own kitchens can help provide it.

Save all your waste fats after you've got the cooking good from them. Bacon grease, drippings from a steak or a roast, used vegetable shortening—everything. Strain them into a clean, wide-mouthed can, as a coffee can or shortening tin. Please don't use paper or glass. Keep them in a cool, dark place, so they won't turn rancid.

Take them to your meat dealer after you've saved a pound or more. He will pay you the established price for your fats and get them started on their way to the war factories. Your meat dealer is doing this as a public service. You can help him greatly by delivering your fats early in the week.

Send them, through your meat dealer, on their way to the battle fronts! To make explosives that drive millions of shells for the guns of the United Nations. For it's "out of the frying pan into gun-fire" when you send your waste fats off to war. Remember! Don't let a single drop go to waste!

UNREST GROWING OVER FAILURE TO CURB SUB RAIDS

Senators Openly Critical of New Deal Laxity.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The Roosevelt administration is increasingly under fire in congress for failure up to date to abate in the slightest degree the submarine toll of merchant shipping along our coasts.

Each successive claim of the administration that the menace is or is almost under control has been followed by an increased number of sinkings. More than 320 merchantmen have been reported as sunk in

American and adjacent waters since Dec. 7.

Sinkings which occurred in the months of January thru May total 268 and since June 1 it is estimated that at least 45 vessels have been sent to the bottom by enemy torpedoes. The toll between Dec. 7 and Jan. 1 was eight, according to navy department records.

Lag in Announcements.

Many of the sinkings were announced from one to six weeks after they actually occurred under navy regulations forbidding the release of the stories until survivors have been landed and withholding information which might be of value to the Nazi sub commanders. So far this month announcement has been made of more than 75 sinkings, for example, but it is known that many of these took place in May.

Widely shared in congress is the opinion openly expressed by Senators Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], and Allen J. Ellender [D., La.] that the destruction of merchant shipping is reaching such proportions as to imperil our victory in the war.

These and other legislators assert that the whole project of opening a successful second front against Hitler will be stymied so long as submarines are sinking as many ships as we are launching.

The navy's call for owners to volunteer the services of themselves and 1,000 additional small craft for the war on submarines is commended as a move that should have been made long ago, but is now better late than never. The inertia of the navy department in mobilizing all the small craft available is likened to its failure to enlist the services of more than a negligible fraction of the owners of private airplanes capable of patrol duty against submarines. Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] vainly urged mobilization of all idle private planes.

Destroyer Most Valuable.

The navy has under construction several hundred small anti-submarine craft of various kinds and has converted to this and other purposes 20 large yachts, 39 medium sized yachts and more than 200 small craft, mainly motorboats from 80 to 125 feet in length. The British have furnished some trawlers and other craft to help us fight the submarines.

The ship most highly valued for anti-submarine warfare is the destroyer. In 1940 the President transferred 50 destroyers to Great Britain. Of those remaining we lost several in the first six months of the war and launched a number of new ones. The latest figure given by the navy for destroyers in commission is 171, most of them supporting our Atlantic and Pacific fleets and guarding transoceanic convoys. There are 191 under construction.

The convoying of merchantmen along our coasts, recently announced by the navy department, was roundly condemned by Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] who said that forcing merchantmen to travel in convoys is tantamount to "sinking half the fleet" convoyed, for the convoy can travel no faster than the slowest ship.

$100,000 Reward Urged.

Sen. Tydings, in a radio speech today, explained his proposal of a $100,000 reward by the navy for information of the location of axis submarine bases off our shores. He thought such a reward would induce persons supplying axis submarines to expose the location of the bases to the American government.

Between Jan. 15 and June 15 from 1½ to 3 million tons of merchant shipping were sunk by axis submarines off our shores. The toll of 17 announced sinkings in January rose to 36 in February, and 60 in March. On April 7 Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said that "there has been a very aggressive campaign to enlarge the type of protection we had provided along the coast. The result in reduced sinkings has been due to these measures."

There was, however, no reduction of sinkings. In fact, they increased. The April toll as 68. On May 4 Secretary Knox ventured another claim of success against the submarines.

Claims Rate Is Subsiding.

"Right now," he said, "there is a definite subsidence of the sinkings on the Atlantic coast. Whether it is due to increased protection or due to the fact that Germany has called in her submarines for overhauling or re-equipping, I do not know. But we are gradually establishing the type of defense that has proved effective around England and the northern Atlantic."

Toward the end of May the President stated that "the progress made thus far is easing our shipping problem" and that the shipping shortage, tho serious, "is being solved." It turned out that the facts were wholly contrary to these statements by the President and Secretary Knox. The May toll rose to 87.

On June 10, Sen. H. M. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], chairman of a senate subcommittee investigating national defense, said that "there haven't been any ships sunk within 50 miles of the coast for 2 weeks now." Several days later thousands of persons on the Virginia shore watched a ship being sunk by a submarine.

HOLD INQUEST TODAY IN CASE OF FUGITIVE SLAIN BY POLICEMAN

A coroner's inquest will be opened this morning into the death of Steve Hartigan, 34 years old, a house to house salesman, who was shot and killed early yesterday by Policeman George Wanland while fleeing after molesting a woman on Wilson avenue near the Ravenswood "L" station.

Steve Hartigan.

Wanland pursued Hartigan into an alley when he was told that a man had tried to attack Mrs. Lena Edwards, 50 years old, of 4631 North Winchester avenue, as she walked along the street with her husband, Charles. Wanland called to the fugitive to stop. When his call was ignored he said he fired one shot, which struck Hartigan near the heart and killed him.

Hartigan's address was listed as 4609 North Wolcott avenue on his draft card.

Australian Warship Sunk in Mediterranean Battle

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 29 [Monday]—(AP).—The new 1,695 ton Australian destroyer Nestor was sunk while escorting the British convoy in the fierce naval and air battle in the eastern Mediterranean June 15, it was announced today.

BRITISH ACT TO ENTERTAIN YANK TROOPS ON LEAVE

Householders Asked to Take In Soldiers.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 28.—The British and the American Red Cross are taking steps for the entertainment of American troops. With thousands of them not only in Northern Ireland but in England, Wales, and Scotland, the foreign office has established a committee headed by Sir Edward Grigg, former undersecretary for war, to work out a system to entertain them when on leave.

The parliamentary secretary of the ministry of information, Ronald Tree, and M. P. Price, a member of parliament, are the other members of the committee.

The Red Cross has taken over the old American Eagle club in Princes Gate. It is also opening the Washington club in Curzon street, which will have accommodations for 300 men.

Hospitality Card Indexed.

The Red Cross is building up a card index of British houses where United States men can go on leave. People offering hospitality are asked to fill out a form explaining just what accommodation they can offer. Each family willing to take Americans is carefully investigated.

Other groups which are endeavoring to provide hospitality for Americans are the English Speaking Union and the Kinsmen, an organization of British parents whose children have been evacuated to the United States. Both run tea-dances and sightseeing trips. The English Speaking Union arranges visits to the house of commons, where M. P.s act as guides, and also arranges demonstrations by the London fire department.

Each American who arrives here is given a booklet prepared by the British government, written in intimate style and describing the difficulties of living in wartime Britain. It also contains a glossary of words which have different meanings.

It contains a section on money which begins, "One of our quaint English customs is to make currency difficulties possible for everybody, including ourselves."

The British Broadcasting company is allotting half an hour weekly and some of its best talent to a program designed for United States soldiers, called "Let's Get Acquainted."

Just by KEEPING WELL You can help win this war!

News from home that all are well and working hard is what our soldiers want most to hear!

What can one person—at home—do to help win the war?

Just do your level best to stay well, to keep from being sick and losing time or spreading your illness.

By the end of this year 35,000 nurses and 40,000 physicians and dentists will be away at war. That is nearly one-third of America's total medical force! And so, for our own sakes we should save our remaining doctors' time for serious and unavoidable sickness and accident.

It's EASY to keep well

Keeping well today isn't as hard as it used to be. Just follow a few simple rules and you have a fine chance to escape most kinds of sickness!

And it is terribly important—to you, to your family and to the whole nation right now. Read how important DR. THOMAS PARRAN, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, says it is for you to keep well:

"Each individual can contribute to his own health protection and improvement by adopting a few simple ways of healthful living. Each of us must accept this responsibility and stick to it with firm purpose. The total of individual responsibility for personal health, accepted by millions of American men and women, will make an incalculable contribution to victory."

Read the rules in the next column. Follow them. If you do, you will be helping to win the war.

FOLLOW THESE 5 RULES

Memorize these five keys to good health. Follow them carefully—for your own welfare and for victory.

1. Eat right

Milk, butter, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans and peas, fruit, green leafy vegetables and the yellow ones, whole-grain or enriched cereals and bread—these are the key foods. Eat plenty of them. And eat 3 meals a day!

2. Get your rest

Regularity counts most. You can't catch up on lost sleep or missed relaxation! Try to keep on a regular schedule every day. Take it easy for a little while after lunch and dinner. Go to bed on time, get up on time.

3. See your doctor once a year

You have your car checked and serviced every thousand miles. Do as much for your body. Physicians can prevent many diseases and illnesses for both children and grownups nowadays. Give your doctor a chance now, BEFORE you get sick. Go to see him!

4. Keep clean

Plenty of baths, lots of soap. Clean hands, clothes, houses, beds! Get fresh air, sunshine. Drink lots of water.

5. "Play" some each day

Romp with the family, visit with friends, take walks, play games—or do whatever you like to give your mind and body a change from the daily grind on the job. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Life insurance has provided the means to keep millions of Americans in health and security. This message is one way life insurance companies believe they can help you to help win this war. Institute of Life Insurance, 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

NATION'S SWEDES PLEDGE UNITED EFFORT IN WAR

Thousands Cheer U. S. at Svithiod Outing.

Americans of Swedish descent from every part of Illinois paid tribute to the United States and their mother country yesterday at the annual outing of the Svithiod lodges of Illinois in St. Paul park, Morton Grove.

Thousands cheered when Bernard Johnson, grand master of the Independent Order of Svithiod of America, said:

"The Swedes of America can be counted upon to stand united behind the American war effort. We are buying bonds and stamps, and Swedish boys are serving in Uncle Sam's armed forces."

Lodge 62 Years Old.

The Svithiod is a Swedish fraternal organization, founded in Chicago in 1880.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, praised the Swedish Americans for their accomplishments in the war.

"We must all work together," he said, "in every village, hamlet, and city of America to present a united front, bending every effort to do everything possible to win the war and preserve the priceless liberty that is ours."

Former State Rep. George H. Smith [6th], spoke briefly upon the accomplishments of the Swedish people in America.

Many in Native Dress.

Many of those present came in colorful Swedish costumes for the folk dancing and pageantry. The Manheim Drum and Bugle corps, composed of sons of Chicago members, won warm applause with a drill exhibition.

Money raised at the outing will be used to help the "Wings for Norway" movement to buy training planes for Norwegian soldiers who are learning to fly in Canada, and to maintain the Svithiod old people's home.

FIND 3D MEMBER OF HALL FAMILY 'ARSENIC VICTIM

Edwardsville, Ill., June 28 [Special].—Dr. W. W. Billings, coroner of Madison county, late tonight announced that all three members of the Hall family, who all died within 50 days in 1939, were suffering from arsenic poisoning at the time of their deaths.

He made the announcement following examination of the viscera of Miss Laura Hall, 71 years old. The organs of her sister, Magnolia, 64, and her brother, Marion, 69, had previously been examined and the same poison found.

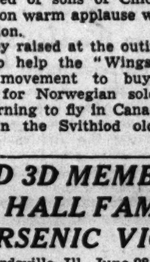
Dr. Billings said an inquest into the three deaths will be held at Troy, Ill., this week. Samuel Hall, beneficiary of a will and deed to his property by Marion Hall, made a week before Marion's death, was still held for questioning in the Madison county jail here.

The examinations were made on petition of David W. Hall and Mrs. Esther Bohnenstiehl, brother and sister of Samuel.

Lecturer Will Discuss Radio's Role in Morale

Appearing under auspices of the summer radio institute of Northwestern university, William Lewis, assistant director of the Office and Facts and Figures, will lecture tomorrow night in Evanston on "Radio's Rôle in Building National Morale." Mr. Lewis will speak at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Institute of Technology.

Tommy Tucker says:



Tommy Tucker, whose "Tommy Tucker Time" is heard on the national networks from the Empire Room at the Palmer House, says, "The Warner method of treatment has given me healthy hair after many other methods had failed. Naturally I am grateful."

Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Many cases treated have resulted in a more luxuriant growth of hair and a greatly improved appearance. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

QUICK HEARING ON RENT PLEAS IS AIM OF OPA

Complaints from Chicago area landlords that the federal rent order effective next Wednesday will work a hardship on them will be handled promptly by a temporary adjustment staff borrowed from the regional rent division and other branches of the Office of Price Administration, it was learned yesterday.

The OPA order imposing a March 1 ceiling on rents in Cook, Kane, Du Page, and Lake counties is expected today. Earl D. Howard, Evanston educator and labor advisor to the city of Chicago, has been appointed rent director and is completing arrangements for the establishment of an enforcement agency.

First consideration in dealing with landlords' complaints will be given to those arising from the installation of substantial improvements on which May 1 rent boosts were based. Such an improvement would have to represent a major capital investment as distinguished from ordinary repair, maintenance, and decorating, OPA officials said.

AIR CORPS TAKES OVER BIG HOTEL AT ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., June 28 (AP).—The 625 room Ambassador hotel, one of the largest in this resort, will be occupied Tuesday by army air force trainees, Col. F. W. Ott, air force projects officer, announced today.

Col. Ott said the army was considering the possibility of taking over several other large hostelries but "when the determination has been made that a hotel can be used, the owners will be asked to negotiate with your government."

The number of trainees who will move into the $7,000,000 hotel was not given.

INSTALMENT VII.

MISSING GUNS.

Dr. Alvarez smiled for the first time since Sir James had spoken slurringly of the Mexican police.

"Did Mrs. Lathrop answer when you knocked?" Morelos asked.

"No, and I thought she had passed out," Sir James ungallantly replied.

"Then what did you do?"

"Not certain. Remember sitting in the chair before the fireplace in the living room. Remember hearing a car in the drive just outside the living room window. Maybe I looked out. Don't remember.

"At any rate I was convinced that Elaine was coming home with him—Harold. Didn't want them to think I'd been waiting for them—spying. Stumbled off to my room. Must have gone right to sleep."

"And that's all you remember?" Morelos' tone was doubtful.

"That's all," Sir James answered curtly. It was plain that the investigator's distrust annoyed him.

"Sir James, do you own any guns?" the other "civilian" queried.

The answer came promptly as tho he had been expecting the question.

"Yes, certainly. Two of them. They're on the mantel beside my monocle and cigaret case."

Juliet spoke up helpfully:

"O, yes, I remember them."

"May we see them?" Morelos asked.

Sir James waved his hand toward the living room door on the other side of the dark patio.

"Go ahead. Look all you like."

The three rose as one man, bowed to Juliet, and departed with apologies for their interruption. Sir James motioned them along impatiently.

"Good dinner, wasn't it, Juliet?" he asked. He appeared relieved at having told his story.

"Excellent," the doctor complimented and settled back with his second cup of coffee. They returned to their light conversation as if there had been no interruption.

Within a few minutes the three men were back—excitement and disbelief in their dark eyes—as tho they expected to find that those they left in the dining room had vanished.

"There are no guns in that room, Sir James," Morelos stated in a hard, flat voice. "And no cigaret case."

Sir James pulled himself up from his place at the head of the great oak table.

"No guns! Must have looked in the wrong place. I'll show you."

He led the three men at fast pace across the patio to the living room. Juliet and the squat doctor brought up the rear. She stood in the doorway watching as Sir James followed by the police, went confidently, to the mantle. The guns were missing. He rummaged thru the papers and magazines on the table. He lifted the pillows in the deep, easy chairs. He searched among the gadgets and knick-knacks Elaine had purchased on her numerous shopping sprees in the Mexican markets.

At last he was convinced the guns weren't in the room.

"You fellows seem to be right. No guns. No cigaret case. Just the monocle. Well, maybe I dreamed it."

He laughed uneasily.

"Never mind—we will search the house," Morelos said pleasantly. "And I think, Señor, we should like to question you more thoroly alone."

He looked meaningfully at the doctor and Juliet.

"I must leave now, anyway, but I should like to talk to you, Morelos," Dr. Alvarez said.

"Later," the investigator answered.

"I'll go," Juliet said quickly.

"Please, don't anybody go before we've had our brandy," Sir James interposed. He pressed the buzzer beside the fireplace.

Upon Maria's quick entrance—she seemed always to be just outside the door—he ordered brandy for six.

Maria did as she was bid—returning in a few minutes with a tray burden of six brandy goblets and a bottle. She poured the auburn fluid carefully, then passed the tray about.

"Miss Johnson's glass," observed Sir James, "it's chipped, Maria. Fetch another."

"O. Sorry," she whispered.

The doctor's approving eyes followed her as she glided from the room.

"Beautiful. Where from?"

"Guadalajara," Sir James answered. "That's where Maria's from."

"All women from there are beautiful," the doctor said.

"So is the name," Juliet interposed to make conversation, altho she would rather have commented on the Mexican's idea of beauty. She hadn't thought of Maria as even remotely pretty, but when she began to analyze the Mexican servant girl's looks, she had to admit to herself there was something mysteriously attractive about her, altho that eternal whispering of Maria's got on Juliet's nerves. Her eyes were so wide apart and her forehead so low that Maria always looked surprised and had the appearance of always listening. Maybe it was her two-toned effect—her olive skin against her dark brown hair—that was alluring to the doctor. Then she had a shapely body—a sensuous shapeliness, Juliet decided, altho being a woman, she hadn't noticed that as quickly as a man might. Maria must have appealed to Harold, too, for Elaine had said he had done an excellent painting of her.

Juliet's thoughts were interrupted by Morelos, who said:

"You like the name Guadalajara, señorita? Then you should know the village of Tzintzantzung."

They laughed. Maria returned with the goblet. The host took it, poured the brandy as Maria left the room, and handed the round-bellied glass to Juliet, while the other men warmed their drinks with their hands around the goblets. As Sir James completed his little task he told them, with worthy pride, something of this particular brand of liquor.

"My family's had a taste for fine liquor since the days of Richard the Lionhearted," he declared.

The sextet sat and sipped as tho no one of them had a thing on his mind except the enjoyment of an evening's leisure. They chatted about the weather, whether the high altitude affected the visiting Señorita Johnson, the condition of the Pan-American highway after it had been in operation for five years, the influx of American tourists and refugees—into Mexico.

But Juliet could see, thru the conversational pleasantries, that Sir James' piercing gray eyes were restless—they flashed from one spot to another, like probing searchlights, apparently looking for the missing guns and cigaret case.

Who could have taken them? She had seen them on the mantle with her own eyes only a few hours ago.

Her thoughts turned to the notes. That off-shade blue ribbon. Where had she seen that color before?

Then she remembered! Her typewriter!

Like so many people Juliet thought she'd like to "write." Altho the portable represented excess plane baggage her mother had insisted that she take it with her, in the proud hope that she might "get something done." It was her typewriter that had that off-shade blue ribbon!

"If you'll excuse me—" Juliet said abruptly.

The squat little doctor also made his adios.

Morelos nodded.

"I want to see you, Morelos," the doctor reminded.

Each gulped the last of his drink—the four men apparently glad that the doctor and the girl were to take their departures. They certainly couldn't have been more eager than Juliet.

She fairly flew to her room. The drink—exactly what she needed—had warmed her delightfully.

Again she dragged the chair to the closed door. This time she noted carefully that the shades were already drawn. She felt under the mattress. The note fragments were still there. She had half expected they wouldn't be.

NORWAY'S SONS OF CHICAGOLAND ALL OUT IN WAR

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

War efforts on two fronts are being diligently aided by 65,000 Americans of Norwegian blood in Chicago and suburbs. They are actively participating in all of America's war endeavors. They also are giving aid to camps in Canada in which Norwegians who have escaped from Nazi occupied Norway are being trained to fight the axis. One gets the impression that they are cracking in with both fists with old Norse fervor in two directions in win-the-war enterprises.

Knute Nelson.

Enlistments of Chicagoans of Norwegian stock in the United States armed forces were reported running high before Pearl Harbor. They began soon after Hitler's invasion of Norway.

Many Organizations Active.

Forty-six Norwegian societies here are active in promoting war efforts. They are affiliated in the Norwegian National League. One of the league's functions has been to arrange the celebration of Norway's independence day, May 17, and Leif Eriksen day on Oct. 9. It is now active in war promotion.

Knute Nelson, president of the league, who, with Reidar R. Haugan, editor of the Viking, a weekly paper, gathered much of the data on which this article is based, says all societies are buying all the war bonds they can, Red Cross units are busy, blood donors are numerous, and Chicagoans of Norwegian stock are throwing their weight in civilian defense, in USO and Red Cross contributions, in salvage operations and on the home front in war plants.

Chicagoland residents of Norwegian origin are so thoroly Americanized and integrated into the population that it is impossible to get accurate statistics on their support of the war effort. This is particularly true in respect to war bond purchases, which largely are made thru banks and pay roll deductions. Again it is true in civilian defense activities performed thru neighborhood and community setups, and in Red Cross work.

Three Norwegian American Red Cross units are among the most effectively organized groups in the city. The Norwegian Woman's Federation, 2512 North Kimball avenue, Mrs. Freda Lundgren, president, has a Red Cross unit with Mrs. Lilian Swanson as chairman. The Norwegian Singers group has one with Mrs. Helga Hansen for chairman. The women's auxiliary of the Chicago Norske club, Mrs. Jens A. Paasche, president, has a third headed by Mrs. Valborg Selrod.

These groups were organized long before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. They hold classes in all forms of Red Cross work, do much knitting and sewing, and are credited with a well mobilized effort.

Churches Do Their Share.

In addition, of course, many women of Norwegian ancestry are enrolled in neighborhood and community Red Cross groups scattered all over the city and suburbs.

The 35 Norwegian churches in the Chicago area, too, are doing a splendid job in promoting war efforts, and some of them have classes in Red Cross work, first aid, nutrition, and other fields.

Great interest is shown in the Camp Little Norway group, active in support of Canadian centers in which escaped Norwegians are trained. Rudolf Eskeland is acting president of the organization in the absence of Alf Selrod, who is in Arkansas on a defense job. Organizer and first president was Ervin Larsen, now with the American armed forces.

Help Train Fighting Men.

"Norwegians are especially wholehearted in prosecuting America's war effort," says President Nelson of the Norwegian National league. "We tell our children what happens in the Norway we knew, and naturally they want to help stamp out the Nazis. Every Norwegian organization is doing all-out service. We've got another project, too, that takes all our spare cash and that is Camp Little Norway.

"More than 1,000 Norwegian boys who escaped from Nazi-occupied Norway are training there to go back and blow hell out of Hitler and the Nazis. All the women's groups are knitting for them and sending warm clothes and food, and our money helps buy them planes for training."

Intense pride is shown by Americans of Norwegian stock in the accomplishments of Norway's merchant fleet, now rated third in size in the world. Its vast fleet of ships, manned by thousands of seamen, transports a large share of the cargoes which serve as the sinews of war for the united nations.

Equal to Million Soldiers.

King Haakon and his cabinet are in London. Crown Prince Olav of Norway, in Chicago in May, with his wife, Crown Princess Martha, said in Orchestra hall, that British officials estimate that Norwegian shipping, which acts under orders of the government in exile in London, has an effectiveness equivalent to that of one million well equipped soldiers.

The first Norwegians came to this section more than a century ago and they and their descendants have done much toward the development of Chicagoland.

"And remember," says Editor Haugan, "the first foreign born American was Leif Eriksen, Norse discoverer of America in 1,000."

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

CHICAGO RESPONDS.

Well, the apathetic middle west seems to be doing it again. The five Chicagoland states collected almost 44 million pounds of scrap rubber in the first six days of the drive. This is more than 20 per cent of all collections thruout the nation. In the first week, the Illinois state council of defense reports, scrap rubber collections in this state amounted to 24 million pounds, altho only 9 million pounds of this was included in the government's report on collections. Another 10 million pounds by-passed the filling stations when it was bought by directors of the Rubber Reserve corporation in the state and shipped directly to reclamation plants, while an additional scrap pile of 5 million pounds was not computed in the government tabulation. Meanwhile Secretary of the Interior Ickes views response in the eastern states as "very disappointing."

Chicago has made a solid contribution to the scrap rubber pile. The salvage director for the metropolitan area stated at the end of last week that Chicago had by then surpassed its goal, even after its quota had been increased 140 per cent. This region's total is expected to rank with the highest in the country when the drive ends tomorrow.

All this is nothing new. A nation-wide campaign to salvage fats and oils from kitchens is just starting. Chicago launched its own drive six months ago and it was extended thruout the state last month. State collections now run to 50,000 pounds weekly. The Chicago plan is to be used as the model for the national campaign.

From the start Illinois has led all states in collection of scrap iron and steel. In April, a typical month, Illinois moved 112,000 tons of scrap to the mills from farms and downstate communities. The collection drive brought in 214,978 tons, a national record, during the entire spring period.

In May, the first month of the nation-wide war bond selling drive, Illinois purchases amounted to 105.9 per cent of the state quota, while New York attained only 85.3 per cent of its quota and the District of Columbia, seat of so much of the concern over the imaginary complacency of the middle west, was 3.6 per cent below its quota. Enlistments in the armed services would show much the same trend if they were published in detail. The navy drive for 10,000 recruits in Chicago during June, for instance, seems assured of success, and enlistments in other service arms have gone steadily forward.

The war department announced that the largest number of ordnance contracts in production during May was reported from the Chicago ordnance district, where there were 2,000 prime contracts and 16,000 subcontracts in operation. The number of prime contracts held here was almost 17 per cent of the total in all 13 ordnance districts and the number of subcontracts approximately 23 per cent of the national total.

The city and state have just reason for pride in the contributions they are making to the war effort. It should not be forgotten, however, that there is a continuing need for iron and steel scrap and for scrap rubber, and that a steady response over the long pull will mean more than the periodic spurt during a short drive. War bonds sales must be not only maintained, but increased. The nation is in a finish fight and none of us can afford to relax until the finish comes.

SECOND CLASS RATES.

The ways and means committee of the house has voted for very large increases in the second class postal rates applying to newspapers and other publications. The postoffice department reported that in the 1941 fiscal year it had received something less than $24,000,000 from second class mail and that the expense of handling this business was more than $105,000,000. The committee recommends rate increases intended to place this branch of the postal service on a pay-as-you-go basis.

As THE TRIBUNE has often said in the past, the newspapers of this country ought not to expect, and whether they expect it or not, should not be given any subsidy of any sort from the government or any of its agencies. A subsidized press cannot be a free press, and in particular it cannot be free to perform its most important function, the surveillance and criticism of the government.

Each newspaper should expect to pay the full cost of its mail distribution. That is axiomatic. The only question raised by the proposal concerns the accuracy of the postoffice department's cost accounting. If the figures presented by the postmaster general can pass the scrutiny of impartial auditors the self-respecting publishers of this country will accept increases in the rates without objection. Consistently over the years THE TRIBUNE has argued against the use of the second class mail privilege as a concealed subsidy. That was our position, it is our position, and it will continue to be our position.

BLACK GEORGE'S HEIR.

The 19 year old Peter who styles himself king of Jugo-Slavia is the grandson of a Peter who ascended the throne when his partisans murdered the head of the rival dynasty and the rival's queen, and tossed their bodies on the palace lawn. This first Peter was the grandson of a bandit named Black George, who came from the mountains to drive the Turks from Belgrade. The honors of the royal house fall short of those of any member of the D. A. R. by about a quarter of a century.

In Black George's time a king was king only so long as he remained at the head of his people. He ruled from the palace in prosperity and from the nearest mountain in adversity, but there were no governments in exile. Sovereignty depended upon sharing the hardships of the nation.

Jugo-Slavia fights on, the least subdued of any of the nations overrun by Hitler. The Italian and Nazi garrisons are not safe outside a few principal towns and the army in the hills is numbered in divisions. But the great-great-grandson of Black George is not with the troops of his nation. He shares the comforts of the princelings in exile, and the other day addressed our congress in Washington.

His appearance before that body at the instance of the majority leaders should help the American people to see the necessity of electing an American congress. This constant genuflection by the Democratic party to anything that calls itself royal is hardly democratic, and decidedly not republican.

PLANES FOR MacARTHUR.

The President's statement of armament production in this country in May was encouraging. He said that in that month we had turned out 4,000 planes, 1,500 tanks, 2,000 pieces of artillery exclusive of anti-aircraft weapons, and 50,000 machine guns.

The numbers are impressive, and it is to be hoped that the quantitative superiority which we seem to be attaining is matched by a qualitative superiority. Most of our weapons have now had a fairly extensive field trial not only in the training camps in this country but also in Russia, Libya, and elsewhere. The country is entitled to an honest reporting of the results. Certainly some of these weapons are very good, as we have learned from Stanley Johnston's account of the effectiveness of our planes and naval anti-aircraft fire in the Coral sea battle and from accounts of the battle off Midway.

We are now producing 4,000 planes a month of various types. Jack Turcott, in a message which passed the American censorship in Australia and can therefore be presumed to be in approximate accord with Gen. MacArthur's views, reported last week that it won't take more than half a month's output of bombers to roll the Japs back. Given the bombers and a corresponding force of fighters, we can reconquer the British and Dutch possessions in the southwestern Pacific and the Philippines before the Japanese have had time to exploit them. If we wait, the enemy will have had the time to organize his defenses and build up his supplies of oil, rubber, and metals, and then the task of defeating him will be immensely more difficult.

Today the Japanese fleet knows that it is no match for our carrier-borne aviation. No doubt the Japanese have analyzed the elements which gave us the victory in the Coral sea and off Midway. No doubt they are working feverishly to apply the lessons of their defeat by improving the quality and range of their carrier planes. In prudence we must assume that within a matter of months the Japs will be in a position to meet us on less unequal terms than exist today.

Now is the time to strike, before their navy has had a chance to recover from its defeats and before the Japanese have consolidated their previous gains. If the job can be done with no more than a fortnight's production of bombers, there isn't a better place to send them than to Gen. MacArthur.

TRIED IN BATTLE.

A number of the inmates of alimony row in the county jail want their freedom so they can go into the armed forces. They are detained in jail for failure to maintain support payments for their wives or former wives. The wives must sign a dependency waiver before they can enlist. It is fantastic that a man can be kept utterly idle, so that he can do nothing for himself, for those with claims upon him, or for his country, and is a charge on the public in addition.

Judges with jurisdiction over these alimony cases plan to call in the wives and attempt to reason with them. There is no good reason why the wives should continue to condemn their husbands to inactivity in the debtors' prison. There is at least a chance that in most instances the wives can collect something thru service dependency allotments. Jailed husbands too old to fight may find work in war industry that will help them to satisfy alimony claims, while those of service age ought to fight the better for their experience in alimony row. War can have few terrors for a man who has been thru a Dunkirk in married life.

Editorial of the Day

TAKE IT KINDLY OR TAKE SOMETHING ELSE.

[From THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 3, 1919.]

Two senators said something when Gen. Pershing was arguing for an adequate military policy before the joint meeting of the senate and house committees on military affairs. One was Sen. Kirby. He said he did not think the people would take kindly to a scheme which withdrew a million young men from industrial and social life. The other was Sen. McKellar. He wanted to know why our soldiers without prior training were so much better than the Germans who had training.

Two profound American instincts thus were illustrated. Possibly not even such common sense as Gen. Pershing patiently gave the senators and the representatives will avail against these instincts. If such common sense does not avail, then the United States is in for it again.

Even its present taxes and its late casualties, its great efforts and its great danger may not sufficiently back up the common sense. If we do not know any better now, we shall not know better later.

Does Mr. Kirby think that the people take more kindly to the waste of war than they do to the preservative processes of peace? Maybe they do. The precautions would impose a service. War imposes a sacrifice. But the precautions can be seen as irksome. The war may seem impossible. The thing which will be destructive and deadly disturbs no one now. The precaution which would be vitalizing, beneficial, and protective disturbs everybody because it would take a little effort.

Rather than take the time of young men now we prefer to take their lives later on. Evidently the American people take more kindly to that idea. They have in the past. They may continue to do so.

Mr. McKellar was as profound as Mr. Kirby and he also spoke to the country which still believes that its untrained men are more than a match for any trained soldiers in the world. The headstones at the graves of half the American soldiers killed in the last war ought to be engraved with: "Killed by national folly."

The marvel of the American army in France was that coming from a nonmilitary nation, within a year and a half it was as good as it was. It suffered heavily and unnecessarily because it was so young and inexperienced. If the kaiser ever is tried for murder we should like to see in the dock with him some of the American pacifists in congress and out of it who were responsible for the deaths of American soldiers. The pacifist rules and the soldier pays.

A nation so infected with such sentiments as Mr. Kirby and Mr. McKellar may not listen to a man so reasonable and experienced as Gen. Pershing. It may not take kindly to the idea of giving its young men six months' training, or organizing and equipping its citizen army, of having a sufficient regular army—not a large one—for constant service. It may not do so, altho this is a military program so reasonable that any one can see its advantages. If it does not take kindly to this idea, some time later it will take the consequences of its folly again as it has taken them in the past.

A good many of those representatives that voted to continue the WPA may be on it.—Indianapolis News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

"TIMES ARE OUT OF JOINT."

Theme song: Medley from "The Student Prince" while the motion pictures show a shy boy king in a foreign naval uniform shaking hands with the President of the United States in a seersucker suit.

* * *

In the fantasia of exiled royalty flitting from London to Washington and back again, the figure of Peter II. of Jugo-Slavia appears like a high school Hamlet, oppressed by a sinister destiny. He was only 11 years old when the assassination of his father made him king-in-name of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes; he was only 17 when an anti-Nazi upheaval among his people made him king-in-fact; and a few weeks later he was a fugitive before the fury of Hitler's airplanes and tanks.

* * *

The news of his father's murder by Croat conspirators came to this boy when he was at his books and games in Eton. [A tragic parallel to the comic opera, "The Student Prince."] He was immediately moved like a political pawn back to his homeland, to be a student king while regents administered the country's affairs in his name. World politics caused his coronation before his 18th birthday, and now he is merely a loose leaf whirling in the vortex of global agony.

* * *

Peter II.'s pictures suggest a sensitive and melancholy lad whose pronouncements are no doubt written for him by the elder statesmen. But he springs from a tough, grim family, and may run true to the Karageorgovitch tradition. His father and grandfather, Alexander I. and Peter I., lived up to the Serbian fighting tradition in the great war.

* * *

The royal house of Karageorgovitch [Black George] descends from a peasant founder. The original Black George, great-great-grandfather of Peter II., liberator of Serbia from the Turks, is believed to have killed 125 men, including his father and his brother. He died with his boots on. The feud between the Karageorgovitches and the Obrenoviches, a rival dynasty, has been savage. See the palace murder of King Alexander Obrenovich and Queen Draga by Black George followers in 1903—one of the most ghastly incidents in the history of the boiling Balkans.

THIS WAS TODAY.

This was a lovely day. Not gay,
Nor marked in any special way
By rain or sun. No dreams came true;
The sky no deeper, richer blue
Than yesterday. The same old sights,
And sounds, and smells, and appetites
As any other day—and yet,
This was a day we'll not forget!
We were alive, and it was good
To smile at friends; be understood
By ones we love; to cherish hope
For things that are to come; to cope
With all the day's defeats and know
That eyes can keep the same warm glow.
No grand events, no proud display,
But yet—this was a lovely day!

What Are the Wild Waves Saying?

The conductors on "L" lines should be given courses in schools of speech. My heart went out to a stranger in our midst who, laden down with suitcases, sat on the edge of the seat waiting for her station to be called. As we approached Adams and Wabash the conductor mouthed out something resembling a Ubangi savage reciting "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers." The stranger asked the conductor what the station was. He glared and repeated, "Dmsbashchngenorshawrndschkgonmilaukee," which means, "Adams and Wabash, change for the North Shore and Chicago and Milwaukee."

When I left the scene at "Rrrnelfndellschngefrsouide" [Randolph and Wells, change for the south side], the unfortunate traveler was still there, apparently resigned to her fate. R. E. C.

Stuka—from STUrzKAmpfflugzeug, dive bomber.

Flak—from FLiegerAbwehrKanonen, anti-aircraft guns.

Gestapo—from GEheimSTAatsPOlizei, federal secret police.

S. S.—from SchutzStaffel, protective guard.

S. A.—from SturmAbteilung, storm division.

ON BRAHMS' LULLABY.

(For Quizzibeth and Cussbert.)

As you this night are lulled to slumber deep
In mother's softly murmured lullaby,
All other little ones are wooed to sleep
By mothers in each land beneath the sky,
In faith as bright as your small candle's glow
That bars the darkness from your tiny bed
And keeps you unafraid because you know
How watching angels guard each tousled head.
And he who long since wrote your cradle song
Sleeps too in peace, content to have his name
Live in the strains that evermore belong
To all the wee folk who somehow became Sweet flowers in a garden he had sown
Because he had no children of his own.

THE BELLADONNA REGIME IN SHAKING PALSY.

WHEN James Parkinson [1755-1824], an English physician, described shaking palsy he little realized how widespread the affliction might become. Today physicians encounter the malady with fair frequency. There is reason to believe that it may follow sleeping sickness [encephalitis].

While no specific cause has been determined, a virus is suspected. The nervous system is disturbed and the cardinal symptoms are paralysis, rigidity of the muscles, and tremors. All three may be exhibited at the same time, altho one may predominate.

Most noticeable of all is the tremor, with several vibrations per second. When the hand is involved, the fingers may be pressed together automatically, with characteristic pill rolling movements. When voluntary acts are attempted, trembling ceases. Occasionally, the manifestation can be controled by a strong effort of will and during sleep it practically disappears.

Because of the firm state of the muscles, the countenance appears masklike, with the head bent forward. This posture may be observed likewise in the trunk. Victims in advanced stages may sit motionless for hours, scarcely winking.

The disease progresses so slowly that search has been made for a neutralizing agent which would permit these sufferers to continue activity. This led to the discovery by Bremer in 1925 that atropine could be employed with marked benefit. Later, it was learned that many of these patients could take relatively large doses without discomfort. Fortunately, the drug does not accumulate in the body and is eliminated within eight hours.

This chemical, which is derived from belladonna, may cause dryness of the mouth with blurring of vision. The first symptom may be overcome by sucking hard candy or chewing gum. Nausea may be experienced in beginning the régime but, as a rule, will not persist when one becomes accustomed to the remedy.

A few years ago Bulgarian belladonna was thought to be superior to the American grown variety. While this is still a moot question, more recent evidence indicates that the efficacy of the native product is approximately equal to the imported type.

Physicians find still further aids in such medicines as hyoscine, which may supplement atropine; while benzedrine sulfate will be of value in certain instances.

It goes without saying that the general health must be maintained at the best possible level. Daily baths and physiotherapy will help. A patient who came under my observation some years ago has made a remarkable comeback under this plan. At the time of the onset, he was 40 years of age. He is now 50 and carrying on his business affairs efficiently. He has not increased his daily dosage for at least three years. Well nigh helpless when he started, he gets about under his own power and is mentally alert. There is no comparison between his present condition and that with which he was confronted a few months after his initial illness.

Like diabetes, Parkinson's disease may be so modified that it can be held in subjection. Relatively few patients, under one management or another, will fail to show improvement.

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 23.

1. Which one of these words is inappropriate in this general grouping?
   Lockheed Curtiss Messerschmidt Boeing
2. It requires how many fresh eggs to make one pound of dried eggs?
   1 dozen 2 dozen 3 dozen 4 dozen
3. The world champion cow recently set an annual record wherein her daily output of milk averaged how many quarts?
   15 quarts 25 quarts 45 quarts 55 quarts
4. The slang phrase, "O, yeah!" indicates which of these attitudes?
   Anger Dismay Doubt Belief
5. To reduce their weight and size of head, birds have no teeth, so they make up for this deficit by eating
   Stones Soft food Worms Berries
6. Here is a problem in nature study to measure the accuracy of your observation of birds. Their plumage is almost as rich in color as the profusion of hues seen in flowers. You deserve one point for each correct matching of the birds named below with the colors usually associated with each.

[a] Starling	[v] Yellow
[b] Thrush	[w] White
[c] Cardinal	[x] Brown
[d] Swan	[y] Red
[e] Canary	[z] Black

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

INHERITED SPIRIT

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

HUMILIATING.

Chicago, June 26.—The saddest spectacle in this morning's TRIBUNE was a picture of a boy king addressing the greatest body of representatives of the people on earth, men who should have intelligence far above a 19 year old. What knowledge could a mere boy impart from a speech written most likely by one of the old gang of European politicians that smell of entanglements and intrigue? What kind of thinking must be going on in these minds that represent this great nation? Isn't this pampering of royalty rather noxious and humiliating? I, for one, would keep royalty out of the picture. We are not fighting for it. J. C. B.

HELP IN THE BOND DRIVE.

Chicago, June 26.—You have been most coöperative in the past in running editorials concerning our war savings pledge campaign, and concerning the good job that Illinois did against its May quota of war bonds as set by Washington. We noticed your editorial this morning entitled "Bed Tick Money." It just happens that this fits in with the last minute drive that we are attempting to make on series G war savings bonds.

NORMAN B. COLLINS,
State Administrator, Treasury department, Defense Savings Staff.

NOT A NEW INVENTION?

Chicago, June 24.—In your recent editorial, "The World Moves On," special credit was accorded a "young physicist at Armour Research Foundation" for invention of a "device by which sound is recorded magnetically on a steel wire."

Some 30 years ago in the offices of the Western Electric company at Hawthorne, I made use of such a device in the recording and transcription of my regular office dictation. The device was known as the "Telegraphone." My dictation was placed on a rapidly moving fine wire which was magnetized by the spoken word and from which transcription was effected by my secretary in the same manner and with as much ease as is currently done via the wax cylinder process of the Ediphone and Dictaphone.

The Telegraphone was not sufficiently perfected at that time to be commercially acceptable. It suffered too much, I fear, from overpromotion. D. J. O.

South Milwaukee, Wis., June 23.—The device said to have been "invented" by a young physicist at Armour Research Foundation is the subject of several United States patents issued early in the century to Dr. Poulsen, a Danish physicist, and is known as the "Telegraphone." Dr. Poulsen is also the inventor of the arc system of wireless transmission, which was in successful use in this country prior to the first world war.

The Telegraphone was developed by Dr. Poulsen in Palo Alto, Cal., at the plant of the Federal Telegraph company—the selfsame place where Lee de Forest made a vacuum tube circuit squeal and thus laid the foundation for the litigation which resulted in his being recognized [albeit erroneously] as the first inventor of the vacuum tube oscillator. Dr. Poulsen's Telegraphone worked well, but never got very far commercially.

THE 33D DIVISION MEMORIAL.

Chicago, June 25.—We hasten to reply to a letter signed by M. A. Porter, who mentioned that he has seen by the papers that we intend to erect a $150,000 monument to the memory of the deeds and records of the 33d Division of World war No. 1.

May we refer him to the CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE of June 21, wherein he will find that on June 20 at our annual convention in Chicago, a resolution was adopted reading in part as follows:

"Resolved that the association postpone for the duration of this war the erection of a memorial for which the legislature has appropriated funds and

"Resolved that the governor be advised that this body by virtue of its adherence to its patriotic duty does hereby return to the state of Illinois all amounts so appropriated by the legislature."

Any news releases indicating that this monument was to be erected at this time were given wholly without the knowledge of the officers or executive committee of this association. JOHN H. PLATTNER.
Secretary, 33d Division War Veterans' Association.

LADY WARD AND HERALD-TRIBUNE.

New York, June 24.—Because I know you advocate accuracy in your paper, I have felt that you would be glad to know of the errors in the article entitled "Gilt Edged Romance" in the Sunday Graphic section of May 31.

I cannot speak with knowledge of some of the people mentioned, but in connection with Ogden's family I can assure you that there are many misstatements of fact, particularly those relating to my sister-in-law, Lady Ward. Most of them relate to superficial matters, but, on one in connection with the New York Herald-Tribune, I know you will be glad to have the facts. No stock of this paper was ever owned by Lady Ward or by any one in England. Also, Lady Ward lives in England. Her home in London was destroyed by bombs in 1940, but she still has her home in the country.

NO WORK FOR THE VETERANS.

Hines, Ill., June 26.—Regarding your editorial, "Put the Veterans to Work." I suggest that you get a copy of the rejection notice sent to the "oldsters" who have made application to the army specialist corps, and read the statement that appointments are being made from the officer's training schools.

It is understood that you must be physically capable of combat service to get into the school, so what chance have most of us got? HOMER E. LYLE.

BELLS VS. SIRENS.

Chicago, June 26.—Referring to the letter "No Sirens in the Night," it may be a "wonderful relief" to have fire engines equipped with bells instead of the sirens which used to shock people out of their sleep, but have you seen one of the bell equipped engines try to get thru traffic? I've watched them try to cross a busy intersection which previously had been easily cleared by their sirens, but, with bells, was a tedious and slow process. READER.

THE NEW DEAL DISCOVERS ECONOMY.

Beloit, Wis., June 24.—Not long ago I was asked to sign "The Consumer's Pledge for Total Defense." The pledge was:

"I will buy carefully.

"I will take good care of the things I have.

"I will waste nothing."

It was printed on valuable paper and from the Harriet Elliott, Consumer division, Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C. I would be interested to know how much salary Harriet Elliott receives, also how many assistants there are in this particular office.

I believe I speak for about 75 per cent of the rest of America when I say that I have practiced these things all my life. Can it be that this administration is beginning to find out that there is such a thing as saving and so they want to let the proletariat in on it? Such pledges are an insult to the American people.

MOVIE "WOLVES."

Chicago, June 26.—Just read the contribution of "A. G." on "Movie Theater Wolves." I, too, have had many experiences with these men. These fellows are not interested in flirting. They want your purse. When one sits next to me with many empty seats about, I ask him why he picks that seat, and if he doesn't move, I'll call an usher—so, being cowards, they leave. MAS. DISPUTED FENCE.

Chicago, June 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am having trouble with my neighbor about the fence between our properties. We live on the west side of a north and south street. He lives one door to the north. I understand that the fence to the right of the property, when one faces east, is mine. The fence in question is in broken down condition and so low that the children next door are constantly throwing toys, balls, etc., into our yard, and jumping over the fence to get them, trampling our vegetable garden. Is the fence his or mine; if his, can he be forced to make it high enough to prevent the children's jumping into our yard? G. H.

The wording of the fence act indicates that the legislature had agricultural properties primarily in mind. Sec. 2, for example, provides that a fence "sufficient to turn stock" shall be legal. Altho the applicability of this wording to urban property is open to some question there is no express exception and we regard the act as applying to division fences between city lots which are inclosed on their other boundaries. It follows that adjoining owners should contribute equally to cost and repair of such such fence.

Section 58-81 of the Chicago municipal code provides: "No wooden fence shall be constructed of greater height than eight feet above the sidewalk grade or eight feet above the surface of the ground where no grade is established."

We have no provision like the Indiana statute, which requires the owner east of the fence to build the north one-half, and the owner north of the fence to build the west one-half.

THE MARCH ON ROME

[London News Chronicle.]

SHRINERS OMIT LEVITY TO HELP NATION IN WAR

A war-conscious imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine will open its 68th annual session in the Palmer House today with members concentrating on means to help the nation win.

More than 1,000 Shriners from 159 North American temples arrived in Chicago yesterday for the session, which will be the first meeting of the imperial council here since 1906. Another 500 are expected this morning.

Hope to Spur Bond Sales.

Council officials said yesterday that the session would emphasize activities designed to help America in the war. Included in the agenda, they said, would be methods of spurring war stamp and bond sales drives, plans to help entertain service men and means of coöperating in civic functions boosting the war effort.

Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green will address the opening session. Flags of the united nations also will be presented. Sen. Wayland Brooks will speak at the annual dinner this evening.

Levity Is Omitted.

Members who arrived in Chicago yesterday were visibly more serious than Shriners at past conventions. With the annual parade, a feature of previous conventions, banned for the duration, the council session will be marked by few ornate festivities.

The seriousness of the meeting yesterday also pervaded the annual reunion of the National Royal Order of Jesters, an organization of Shriners designed to provide levity during the council. The Jesters' Royal director, A. A. D. Rahn of Minneapolis, Minn., said the group would omit most of its elaborate parties and discuss aid to the war effort. But true to tradition, it started its regular business meeting at 2:13 p. m.

Will H. Wade, trustee of the Chicago unit, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children reported at the concluding session of the hospital board that George M. Poe, Chicago business man who died in 1939, had bequeathed $229,000 to the hospital. This is the largest single bequest ever received by the Chicago unit.

JOLSON, LLOYD IN CHICAGO FOR SHRINE MEETING

Al Jolson, Harold Lloyd and Walt Disney of Hollywood, stepped off the Super Chief in Dearborn street station yesterday. Jolson and Lloyd are here for the 68th annual Shriners' convention opening at the Palmer House today. Disney is on his way to Washington, D. C., to discuss movie propaganda with government officials. Jolson said he was "tired and dusty," and wouldn't his public kindly refrain from asking for autographs. His public wouldn't.

Lloyd, courteous and chubby, wanted to know why the "east" made such a fuss about the shelling of the Oregon coast by a Japanese submarine last week. "We're ready for anything out there and not too nervous," he said.

TINY WIFE USES PISTOL TO END FUSS WITH MATE

A tiny wife's battle with her husky husband ended yesterday when he was shot and critically wounded.

He is Richard J. Paul, 29 years old, a 180 pound ironworker. He was shot thru the abdomen. His wife, who used a .25 caliber automatic pistol, is Mrs. Shirley Paul, 28, who is 4 feet 11 inches tall and weighs less than 100 pounds. The quarrel and shooting took place in the bedroom of their home at 1347 West 91st street.

The shooting was investigated by Lieut. James Garrey of the Gresham police station. Mrs. Paul confessed she shot her husband after being questioned several hours by Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie.

Paul, who was taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital, was in too serious condition to be questioned physicians said.

The store will be closed all day Saturday, July 4, and the six following Saturdays

"All day Saturday off! Isn't it wonderful?"

IN this war year, everyone in our stores is working extra hard—both in our jobs and in patriotic activities. Hundreds of evening hours go into Red Cross and U.S.O., Civilian Defense and war relief work. This double-time effort makes summer sunshine and rest more important than ever. So we're taking a breather now—to get ready for another tough winter ahead. We believe you, our customer friends, will agree this is a fine thing. We hope you'll find it convenient to shop in the first five days of the week.

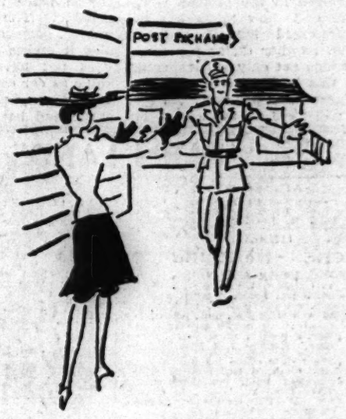
As a WAR TIME MEASURE, we shall close the downtown and suburban stores ALL DAY on seven Saturdays, July 4 through August 15.

Saturday, August 22, all our stores will resume regular Saturday hours.

"Real weekend, isn't it? Gives me time for my Victory Garden. Maybe I can even get acquainted with my neighbors this summer."

"Saturdays off? That's something. Now the kids and I can get lots of sunshine at the beach."

"Saturdays off—it's swell. Mary and I can get in some golf. Good way to rest up for next fall."



"Saturdays off? Isn't that grand! Now I can visit Ed in Camp and have enough time to enjoy it."

SHAYNE IN N.Y. FOR QUIZ ON CASH TO CAPONE MOB

Film Operators' Union Head Called by U. S.

New York, June 28 [Special].—Peter Shayne, $13,000 a year president of the Chicago Motion Picture Operators union, is due here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the office of United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa, to amplify statements he gave recently concerning payments to members of the Capone syndicate, which is said to maintain an iron-handed control of the Chicago organization.

It is indicated that Correa will probably take Shayne immediately before the federal grand jury. This will be Shayne's third recent appearance in New York at Correa's behest. He will be followed here from Chicago Tuesday by John Smith, $20,000 a year business manager of the movie union, who spent from Monday to Thursday last week in New York, in constant touch with Correa.

Called Several Times.

The United States attorney has not been willing to state whether he had either or both of the men before the grand jury so far. He admits they have been called here by him several times recently, however, and there is every indication that a federal grand jury has heard testimony from them.

At the headquarters of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés and Motion Picture Operators here, Shayne is said to have become strictly persona non grata since he has been compelled to come and give statements to Correa and probably the grand jury.

Shayne's statements to Correa are said to have had to do with certain "envelopes containing money" which he for a long time handed to Nick Circella and more recently passed on to Ralph [Bottles] Capone.

Dean Is Eclipsed.

Circella, more commonly known as Nick Dean and called the "personal representative" of George E. Browne, was allegedly collector for the old Capone mob, until he recently was sentenced to eight years in federal prison on a plea of guilty to extortion of more than 1 million dollars from four major motion picture producing companies. Browne, once head of the Chicago Movie Operators union, and William Bioff, a California representative of the parent international alliance, were convicted in the same plot and drew similar sentences.

It is understood "Bottles" Capone, brother of Alphonse, has taken over the Chicago management and collecting for the organization since Dean was sent to prison.

Sir Charles Ross, Rifle Inventor, Succumbs at 70

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 28 (AP).—Sir Charles Ross, 70 years old, inventor of the Ross automatic rifle, once used by Canada's army, died today following a short illness. He lievd at Passagrille, Fla. Survivors include his wife, Lady Dorothy Ross. Sir Charles received his education at Eton and Trinity college, Cambridge. He served in the Boer war as a captain. He owned large tracts of land in Britain. Sir Charles was divorced in 1928 by Patricia E. Ross.

RUSH TO BOOST RUBBER STOCK AS DRIVE NEARS END

Certain Chicago Will Fill Its Quota.

A "last lap" campaign by gasoline station attendants, janitors, hotel managers, and civilian defense workers was reported yesterday to have added thousands of pounds of rubber to the huge stock already accumulated in Chicago. The 16 day nationwide scrap rubber drive ends Tuesday at midnight.

Nathaniel Leverone, state salvage director for the War Production board, said that late reports from downstate communities indicate a sharp upturn in rubber collections.

City to Make Good Showing.

"While we do not have complete figures to release, we know that Chicago and Illinois will make a good showing in the drive," Leverone said. "The renewed effort being made thruout the state is heartening."

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club and chairman of the rubber drive coördinating committee, said that Police Commissioner Allman has directed policemen to spur the salvage drive among hotels in their districts.

E. I. Tafel, 7400 North Hoyne avenue, donated the rubber mat from the trunk of his automobile and suggested that all auto owners do likewise as a means of increasing the nation-wide collection. He also suggested that officials of the drive should issue stickers reading, "I donated my rubber mat," to be pasted on autos. Tafel's mat weighed 10 pounds.

Donate 200 Tons of Scrap.

A special all-salvage day in Cicero brought in more than 200 tons of rubber, rags, iron, and other metals, Lewis Hineman, salvage chairman for the 13th division of the Office of Civilian Defense, said. The division covers 19 western suburbs.

"We had 21 trucks operating all day hauling collected scrap from Cicero to the Kay Salvage company at 4736 Iowa street," Hineman said. "It was the biggest pile of junk I have ever seen. Every one in Cicero must have contributed something."

The Cicero drive was sponsored by the OCD and proceeds will be applied to finance civilian defense activities in the town.

HEART DISEASE ENDS LIFE OF A. M'DONOUGH

Austin McDonough, 63 years old, retired policeman of the traffic division, died of heart disease yesterday in his home at 4636 North Hamilton avenue. McDonough was born in Chicago and served on the police force for 31 years until his retirement June 1, 1941. For several years before his retirement, he was posted in Michigan avenue in front of Tribune Tower. He is survived by his widow, Hattie, a daughter, Harriet, and a son, Austin Jr.

City's 2 Service Centers Entertain 36,096 in Day

Mayor Kelly's defense commission which operates the service men's centers at 176 West Washington street and Fullerton avenue and the Outer drive, offered the following statistics last night: A total of 21,752 service men made use of the facilities at the summer center yesterday, while 14,344 visited the loop center. Workers handed out 3,200 pounds of hot dogs —about 32,000—and fed the service men 3,250 cakes for a new record.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., June 28 [Special].—John Brickler, 65 years old, and five of his children, were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their log farm home in Dearborn county, 2 miles south of Yorkville.

JULY 4 TRAFFIC TOLL MAY REACH 20, CLUB WARNS

The 4th of July week-end traffic accidents may take 20 lives in Illinois and Indiana unless drivers are more careful than in previous years, the Chicago Motor club said yesterday. It warned:

"Don't drive too fast. Don't drive too far. Don't pass on hills or curves. Don't slip over the center line. Don't dodge in and out of traffic. Don't drink if you drive. And don't expect the other fellow to obey any of these rules."

Two Negroes were killed yesterday when their car overturned at 83d street and South Chicago avenue. They were Joseph King, 27 years old, of 4543 Dearborn street, and Beverly Davis, 28, of 4933 Dearborn street.

Virgil Race, 45, of 4342 Western avenue, Western Springs, was killed in an automobile collision on highway 55 south of West Bend, Wis. His wife, Esther, 43; two daughters, Betty, 16, and Norma, 15, and four other persons were injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 356 persons were killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 278 were killed in Chicago, where 10,138 persons were injured.

MISSING CLERKS' OFFICIAL ASKED TO RETURN HOME

Friends of Michael Savachka, former secretary-treasurer of local 1248, Retail Clerks International Protective association, who has been missing since June 8, 1941, made an appeal to him yesterday thru Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford to come home.

Crawford said Savachka's relatives and friends are certain he had never taken a penny of the union's funds for himself.

It is their belief, Crawford said, that he was induced to hide by Max Caldwell, the gangster who muscled into control of the union, and who is held responsible for its looted treasury.

MILK DRIVERS TO BEGIN EARLIER TO SAVE RUBBER

Milk deliveries will be placed on a summer schedule starting Wednesday morning, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area director of the Office of Price Administration, asserted yesterday. Deliveries will begin an hour earlier, at 7 a. m.

Mulcahy, who is in charge of tire rationing, conferred with representatives of the milk wagon drivers' union and Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., who had requested a change in the delivery schedule. Mulcahy has promoted the government's rubber conservation program by asking truck operators to keep delivery mileage to a minimum.

"It is believed that this saving of one hour from the heat of the afternoon will conserve tires and equipment and still will not require more than one call to a customer daily," he said. "Deliveries now are made between 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Youth Drowned in Lake; Trapped by Large Rock

Alvin Ratz, 17 years old, 9911 Avenue H, was drowned in Lake Michigan at the foot of 98th street late yesterday when he was trapped beneath 5 feet of water by a 2,500 pound rock. Ratz, while swimming, seized hold of a piece of piling, which held up the big rock. The piling broke away and the rock slipped into the water, falling on one of his legs. Coast guardsmen, after working for 20 minutes, recovered his body.

Ravinia Trustees Will Honor Conductor Tonight at Dinner

BY JUDITH CASS.

RAVINIA PARK'S familiar and well loved summer picture of illuminated dells, petunia beds, and gay costumes will come to life tomorrow night with the opening concert of the seven week season. For trustees of the Ravinia Festival association, however, the new season will have its unofficial opening tonight with the annual dinner for the first conductor of the series. Tonight's party at the Exmoor Country club will be for Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the Minneapolis symphony, who will occupy the podium during tomorrow night's "curtain raiser" at Ravinia.

Percy B. Eckhart, chairman of the association, Mrs. Eckhart, and Mrs. Louis Eckstein, thru whom the little park is made available as a music center, will be on hand tonight to welcome Mr. Mitropoulos. Also attending the dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. Howell W. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Renslow P. Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Z. Hinkle, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Berkson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eugene Davis, Mr. and Mrs. George Voevodsky, Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Poole, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein.

Hope Naval Officer Can Attend Ravinia Opening.

The trustees are hoping that Lieut. Durand Smith, who is a member of the board and an inveterate Ravinia goer, will be able to obtain leave from the naval reserve school at Quonset Point, R. I., to be present at the dinner and concert.

Before the opening number tomorrow night, 50 sailors, members of the Great Lakes Naval Training station choir, will join with the Chicago symphony in the national anthem and in "Anchors Aweigh." Among those with boxes for the series are Mr. and Mrs. Eckhart, Mrs. Eckstein, Gen. and Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Hay, the Donald R. McLennans, the L. Lewis Cohens, the Harold O. McLains, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Callner.

The first six weeks of the series, which will be given on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons thru Aug. 16, are to be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The Budapest String quartet will be presented during the seventh and final week.

The Lake Geneva Country club's annual lobster and crabmeat luncheon will not be a wartime casualty, for the club is going ahead with plans for the traditional Fourth of July event, initiated 43 years ago Saturday by Martin A. Ryerson and Charles L. Hutchinson. This year the club's 18 hole medal handicap golf tournament and Fourth of July tennis tournament will be benefits for the American Red Cross. The holiday festivities at the club also include a dinner-dance on Saturday and a two-ball mixed foursome on Sunday, when the tennis finals are to be played.

Lake Geneva also will be having a Fourth of July wedding. When Ensign Hellmuth L. Kirchschlager suddenly received leave from the navy, he and his fiancée, Miss Mary Ann Niehoff, decided to be married at 5 o'clock on Saturday in the garden of her parent's summer home in Williams Bay. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad E. Niehoff will give a reception after the ceremony. Ensign Kirchschlager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Kirchschlager of Baltimore, Md., will take his bride to New York.

Today Miss Joanne Boynton, who also is engaged to a young ensign, Edward Chrisman Jr., is giving a kitchen shower in the Pump room for Miss Niehoff. Another of their Girls' Latin school classmates, Miss Edith Dato, was hostess at a lingerie shower on Friday.

If Ayres Boal was the only host present for a time at the luncheon which the Boals, the Stewart Boals and the junior Philip W. Moores [Henrietta Boal] gave on Saturday before the wedding of Miss Barbara Hobart and Craig Colgate Jr., there was a good reason for the absence of the other five. The young Moores' second child was born on Saturday morning at the Evanston hospital. The baby, who has been named Philip III., has a little sister, Ayrie. Both the Boals and the junior and senior Moores live in Winnetka.

St. Luke's Hospital Giving Send-Off to Air Force Unit.

The board of trustees, the woman's board, and the medical staff of St. Luke's hospital will gather at 8 o'clock tonight at the Racquet club for a "send off" party for St. Luke's army air force unit. The unit, consisting of 40 doctors, will leave next month for the Buckley field air corps hospital in Denver, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Robert Cerny [Jane Juanita Welch] of Lake Forest are receiving congratulations on the birth of a second son on June 13 at the Alice Home hospital. The baby, who has a 3 year old brother, Jerome Robert Jr., has been named Lance Ninian after his paternal grandfather, the late Judge Ninian H. Welch of Chicago.

1,500 Enjoy Equine Jamboree at the Louis F. Swift's Farm

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

The Galloping Hills Horse show yesterday at the Louis F. Swift's farm in Wheaton brought a jamboree of fun to some 1,500 visitors, but it was a day to be remembered by Mrs. Swift, Miss Sally Miller, and Puddleduck. Thruout the day Miss Miller and her hunter, Spymaster, added several trophies to their large collection, and at one point the young equestrienne even changed mounts to win the mule race. Puddleduck's moment of glory came when the Swifts' 30 year old pony was crowned queen of the show with a halo of fresh carrots by children taking part in the costume parade. And for Mrs. Swift, who organized and directed the benefit for the Chicago Maternity center, the day must have been one of unqualified satisfaction. Grand winner for the afternoon was Miss Eleanor Moffett of Holland, Mich., on Candolette.

The committee's hopes for a fair day came true with a vengeance, and before the show was an hour under way sun glasses and brimmed hats were doing yeoman service. One young rider kept cool by holding a red umbrella over her head as she sat on horseback. Two feminine spectators, watching the show from atop the leather seat of their convertible, were barefooted. And, of course, the little brook meandering across the meadows drew its share of youthful waders attempting to escape the heat. In spite of the brilliant sun the ring was crowded all day long. Many spectators drew their cars right up to the ringside to watch the events, but one envious young visitor chose the nearest thing he could to a live steed—a bicycle with a raccoon tail attached.

The refreshment stand did a rushing business in sandwiches and cool drinks. Luncheon for the most part was eaten on the grass beneath the trees, for the little Galloping Hills club, a tiny enclosure of red-checkered tables topped with red geranium pots, was able to accommodate only 50 guests at a time.

The plèce de résistance of the afternoon was the Longmeadow Hounds' exhibition fox hunt, in which the Chauncey McCormicks' Mr. Woolwich was judged the winning hunter. Another highlight was Mrs. Swift's and Jack Price Jr.'s competition of jumping without bridle or saddle.

Seated on the grass beneath a shady tree, Mrs. Wayne Wills, in a red, white and blue print dress and tiny white straw hat, was the center of a youthful group which included several Girls' Latin school classmates of her niece, Hattie Ogden. Among the young women near by were Ginger Elwood, Doxis Kralovec, and Maxine Cooper, who was riding in the show. Mr. and Mrs. John A. McGuire, whose horse, Emperor, was among the afternoon's winners, had luncheon in the enclosure. Dark-haired Mrs. McGuire was wearing a cool crème de menthe and white print gown. Another attractive print dress was Mrs. Peter Moon's raspberry crêpe.

Others at the show included Mrs. Ross J. Beatty Jr., Mrs. Winfield T. Durbin II., Mr. and Mrs. Jere Patterson, Mrs. Rend Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton A. Throckmorton, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley and their daughter, Mrs. Bradley Davey, Miss Shirley Hopkins, Miss Carol Fox, Mrs. Austin Niblack, Mrs. Thomas Furness, Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Ginevra Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Curtis and their daughter, Flossie.

Sally Invites Youngsters to Baseball Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Well, boys and girls, here we are again! School's over and it's time for fun!

As hundreds of youngsters who've been my guests in previous years know, just as soon as summer comes, it's time for me to drop everything else and see what I can do about helping you boys and girls have some fun. So—every week during July and August, we're going to have a party, and judging from our present plans, this is going to be an extra-special year.

We have all kinds of wonderful treats, and we're starting the season off with a bang. I feel that our parties are even more important than ever, because this year I know that all you boys and girls are saving your pennies to buy war stamps to help win this war, so there probably won't be as many movies and ice cream cones as you've been used to.

Our first party is to be on July 9, and it's one I know you'll love. Fifty boys and fifty girls will have an opportunity to come with me to see a big league baseball game at Wrigley field. Those of you who are Cub fans will have a chance to see your favorite players at the Cub-Boston game on July 9. Isn't that good news?

Since I can't take all the boys and girls who would like such a treat, I'll try to take those to whom such a party would mean the most. If you're a real baseball fan, and would rather see a game than eat, you're just the kind of youngster I want as my guest. All you have to do is write me a letter that will convince me that you'll have a swell time, you see!

Winning an invitation to any party isn't a bit hard, but there are a few very simple rules you must remember. Just tell me why you'd enjoy this party and remember to include your full name, address, and age. You must write your own letter, and mail it so that it will reach me by next Thursday, July 2. Please don't ask for invitations for your friends. Have them write, too, if they want to come. Notes from parents will not be accepted.

Next, Thursday morning I'll read all your letters and the 50 boys and 50 girls who write the most enthusiastic letters will be selected as my guests. The names of the winners will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

I'll tell you more about our party plans tomorrow, but you needn't wait for that to start your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

The Housewife

There is no need to get rid of your old awnings simply because they are faded and drab. You can make them look like new by painting them with a paint made especially for this purpose. It comes in about a dozen bright colors and one quart will cover approximately 60 square feet of awning. Besides rejuvenating its appearance it will also protect the canvas against weather. Business Clubs Adopt Program for War Effort

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs announces today the adoption of a four point war program designed to coördinate efforts of its 76,000 members thruout the United States. The program, believed by Dr. Minnie L. Maffett of New York, federation president, to be the first of its kind for women in business, industry, and the professions, is set forth in the current issue of the federation's periodical, Independent Woman.

Battle of ideas, battle for production, community offensive and battle for peace are the four "fronts" proposed for action.

In the battle of ideas, it is suggested that the member clubs set up an opinion clearing house in every town; name a "listening in" committee to investigate rumors; analyze the newspapers; support candidates who understand implications of the battle for freedom both at home and abroad, and discuss the legal status of women to learn how it can be improved.

In the battle for production the clubs are urged to open war worker recruiting stations, thru coöperation with the United States employment service. Also suggested are an analysis of each town's war production, including a survey of women's contributions; meetings to dramatize the need for mobilizing woman power; gathering of information on the training of women for war production, and for professional and semiprofessional jobs, and organization of a community forum for the discussion of postwar employment.

The forming of "ground crews" to hold down inflation is proposed for the community offensive. These crews are to keep in touch with price fixing and rationing boards to ascertain if they need the services of trained women; to see whether a consumer committee has been set up in connection with the local defense council; to help the local war savings committee, and to discuss methods of fighting inflation. Helping to organize a civilian health army and work in good neighbor and emergency protective services are also included.

Action urged in the battle for peace is the setting up of a United Nations Town hall for public meetings in each club's town.

Good Morning!

Nine prize fighters and a lady get away from a swell start to an intriguing finish in this merry programmer.

"Sunday Punch" isn't a "big time" picture, but it's a good time one that provides three able young featured players with a generous chance to show star stuff, which, I think, they do. . . . These are Dan Dailey Jr., William Lundigan—you know, girls, the one with the smile and the dimples [only not sissy]—and Jean Rogers, purty and genuine as a shining gold nugget.

She plays niece to a boarding house landlady, whose establishment is for fighters only, by order of a fight promoter, J. Carrol Naish, who rules his boys with a firm hand. . . . "No dames!" he has decreed.

There, having no place else to go, comes from—wherever she's been—pretty Judy Galestrum, to live with her auntie. . . . AND stays. How and why she stays I'll leave for the picture to show. . . .

All the lads like Judy a lot. Two fall hard for her . . . Ken Burke, only college man there, and a fighter of note, tho he'd yearned to be a doctor, and Olaf Jensen, the humble Swedish janitor—who takes up fighting for a lady who doesn't care! At least not the way he does.

Olaf's the one with the "Sunday punch"—which means a sure fire knockout blow. [I got that from a press sheet.]

Well—there's a lot of to-do that's greatly enjoyed by the audience—including a couple of fights that really hurt the observer. . . . We all liked the way things worked out.

Young Dailey's performance is the most outstanding one. . . . He could so easily have overplayed and overdialect-ed. But he didn't. . . . Lundigan is smooth as silk and very convincing, and Messrs. Naish and Levene, as promoter and trainer, respectively, are tops.

The breezy film is brief.

See you tomorrow.

Thru the Looking Glass

The girls are telling us that this fashion of cosmetic stockings is pretty wonderful, except that, in summer, when open sandals are worn, it exposes the feet and all their faults.

We agree; our own feeling is that even flawless feet lack beauty. But there are little things one can do to make feet more attractive, and if hose are going to be scarce we'd all better learn them.

The first thing, we think, is to get right out of the kind of shoes that are responsible for the misshapen state. Some basic corrective care is what a lot of us require. Because feet don't show, or didn't until recently, we subjected them to a neglect we'd never give any other feature. Now more than ever the chiropodist is the man to turn to, and well fitted shoes are the proper kind to wear.

The essential corrective work taken care of, you'll find that a lot of those hard, red spots and those queer toe quirks will disappear automatically; they've been caused by friction, either from faulty weight distribution or the wrong shoes, or both. Creaming the feet to soften the skin will help the corrective cause along. Using a good foot cream or, in a pinch, any good softening cream, will make the skin softer, and smoother, and prettier.

Exercises—special little foot limberers—help improve the health as well as the appearance. Your foot doctor can tell you exactly what your individual foot peculiarities call for. The proper exercises can straighten out the crooked toes, usually, and keep them from falling back into their bad habits.

Nail grooming, when you're sans stockings, is very important. Trim your nails carefully, more in a straight line than in a point, oil the cuticle, keep it pushed well back and by all means use polish. Red toenails make the surrounding foot skin look lighter by several degrees. But don't apply polish to nails that aren't trained to some shapeliness; unless the nails are as pretty as is possible for toenails to be, it looks awful. Ugly, neglected toenails are merely more conspicuous when they're daubed with red lacquer.

GASOLINE ALLEY—BROAD SHOULDERED

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., June 28.—You've got to take off your hat to Col. Darryl Zanuck's patriotism, and his vision for this industry is far ahead of many of our leaders. He considers it a great privilege to have been able to take a trip to England, and says the interchange of Russian and English training pictures and ours is already taking place. With their limited production facilities England can only make enough pictures for England, but we have to make them for the world. It's all right to send a troupe of people out to entertain and build up morale, but that troupe couldn't be in Midway, Ireland, and the Aleutian Islands at the same time—and a picture can. This is our chance to give entertainment, relaxation, and information, and to raise this industry to a pinnacle it's never reached before.

It's About Time.

Eddie Albert finally gets a break in "Bombardier" with Anne Shirley and Randolph Scott, with my old friend, Dick Wallace, directing. And when this is finished Eddie goes into "Ladies' Day" for an awful beating with Lupe Velez. . . . Don't be too surprised at seeing Winnie Sheehan back in the production saddle again. The grapevine tells me that he's been made a proposition. . . . I asked Alan Ladd, who became a star in "This Gun for Hire," how he liked New York. He said, "I haven't seen it yet. I was so busy there I didn't have time for sightseeing." He's only been out of Los Angeles county three times in his life. He has quite a career ahead of him. 'Cause why? 'Cause he can act—and he's a new type.

In Action at Last.

Well, well! Howard Hughes' picture, "The Outlaw," which has been in dry dock lo, these many months, will finally be launched in August, and you'll see Jane Russell in action at last. . . . But the thing I like about Howard Hughes is the way he's launched his airplane factory. A friend of mine went to work there and says it's the happiest group of people he's ever met up with. The day before he started he was taken thruout the plant by the head of each department. When he commented on the attitude of the workers he was told that happiness was a requirement. When the government wanted to back the place with its cash Howard said, "Huh-uh. Then it would be yours—not mine. And I couldn't work the way I like." Well, as an airplane producer he's great. Let's hope the picture measures up.

He'll Tell It, Too.

"I'll be darned if W. C. Fields isn't writing a daily column on current topics, with plans to syndicate it. You know, it was Bill who first drew Will Rogers' attention to doing a column. Well, he has lots of time to write because he suffers from insomnia. In fact, the only time he sleeps is when he can't find any one to talk to. Gets up at the crack of dawn and goes prowling just to exchange views with the neighbors' night watchmen. "And," says Bill, "I get more common sense from them than I do from most of the people in Hollywood." . . . John Gambledon designed a dilly of a dress for Margaret Lindsay. It's a print, with "Slap the Japs," "A Slip of the Lip," and other slogans, while on each sleeve is a large "Shush."

Work Cut Out for Him.

Before Mitch Leisen directs "Lady in the Dark" he may do "Frenchman's Creek." He'd like to borrow Joan Fontaine for it. "But," said he, "I suppose they'd want Bob Hope and half the studio." . . . Mitch is sporting the best victory suit I've seen. It's in one piece, of beige cotton gabardine, beautifully tailored, made with one patch pocket on the upper part, a narrow belt, no cuffs on the slacks, no wasted goods in the shirt-tail, 'cause there ain't none! Claudette Colbert's going to have it copied, and so would I if I had the shape for it. . . . David Loew, who, with Al Lewin, made "The Moon and Sixpence," stopped production for the duration. Loew has offered his services to Uncle Sam. That means "Land Fall" and Ben Hecht's "Mating Call" will have to be shelved or sold. . . . In "Here We Go Again" Edgar Bergen was crawling around in the dark. "I wonder if this is the way a blind man would act?" asks Bergen. Up pipes assistant cameraman—"No, it isn't!"—then shows Bergen the right method. Man was Art Lasky, former contender for world's heavyweight boxing title, who at one time was knocked blind for 14 months. . . . Katie Hepburn always reminds me of a thorobred horse. Whether you like her or not, you can't deny that, like a rainbow after a storm, quality shines thru.

Woman Lecturer from England to Address City Club

Miss Hilda Beal of Yorkshire, who has been in the United States since January lecturing on education and war conditions in England, will appear as guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the City Club of Chicago at 12:30 o'clock today in the Hotel La Salle. Members may bring women guests.

Miss Beal is a member of the Woman's Volunteer Service of Great Britain. She is geography mistress at the Tadcaster school, and was here previously as an exchange teacher in North Dakota. Tomorrow night she will address a special meeting of Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women and its guests in the Alliance Francais, 410 South Michigan avenue. Wednesday morning she will speak at the Chicago Woman's club, and on Thursday she will be at the College club.

Woman's Aid to Open Play Work for Deaf Children

The Chicago Woman's aid will open its summer play program for deaf children and those with defective hearing at 12:30 o'clock today in Ogden park at Racine avenue and 65th street, and at 1 o'clock tomorrow in Eckert park, 1330 Chicago avenue. In Ogden park Mondays and Thursdays will be play days and in Eckert park, Tuesdays and Thursdays. Progressive games and gymnastics are planned, and classes in swimming.

Ann Crofford Is Married to John Cullerton

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Hill Crofford of Brompton place announce the marriage of their daughter, Ann, to Sergt. John Cullerton, son of Mrs. Charles Freichel of Chicago. The wedding took place on June 20 at Tullahoma, Tenn. Sergt. Cullerton and his bride, who both attended the University of Illinois, took a short trip to Lookout Mountain, Tenn. She has returned to Chicago to stay until his army plans are more certain.

Announcement is made of the marriage on June 20 of Miss Janet Raymer, daughter of Paul H. Raymer of New York and Chicago and of Mrs. George Patrick Welch of New York, to Wiley Richard Reynolds Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds of Palm Beach, Fla., and Jackson, Mich. Mr. Reynolds, a graduate of Yale and Hotchkiss, and his bride, who attended Rosemary Hall and Bennett Junior college, will be at home in Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards Bond of Middletown, O., formerly of Chicago, announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, and Richard R. Pemberton of Chico, Cal., last Saturday in Chico. The bride attended Lawrence college and is a graduate of the Presbyterian Hospital Nurse's Training school. Mr. Pemberton and his bride will live in Chico.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Barbara Bowman and Truman Kirkpatrick on June 20 at the First Presbyterian church. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Leonard Bowman of Kimbark avenue. Mr. Kirkpatrick is the son of the Rev. Blaine Kirkpatrick of Indianapolis, Ind. The two ministers officiated at the ceremony.

The marriage of Miss Marie Louise Stafford, daughter of the Morton Ogden Staffords of Mount Airy, Pa., to Donald Douglas Scarff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Douglas Scarff of Winnetka, took place at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Mount Airy, John Scarff, the bridegroom's brother, and John Dunhill of Winnetka were among the ushers.

Announcement is made of the marriage on June 20 of Miss Dorothy Jane Nohr, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Robert Nohr Jr. of Madison, Wis., to Henry Campbell Hitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Hitt of Christopher, Ill. Mr. Hitt and his bride, who have been teaching in Elmhurst, will live there.

On the House

Now we find that prefabricated houses of synthetic boards are manufactured from old newspapers which are processed chemically and then flattened into structural boards. . . . These are a new development in the knock-down type of inexpensive homes. . . . Some of these prefabricated single family dwelling units contain two bedrooms. . . . These are a very recent solution for defense housing. . . . They can be set up quickly, then disassembled and taken by truck to another site and rebuilt—all in a day. . . . Quite an accomplishment! "Can you use tea leaves over again?" readers have been asking me since they've become conscious of the tea shortage. During normal times, my answer would be no, for after a steeping of longer than 3 to 5 minutes you are likely to obtain a bitter brew. In view of the present situation, I'd say yes, provided you add a few fresh leaves when you are using the tea leaves the second time. Don't try to use them a third time.

Caffein, or thein as it is sometimes known, is the stimulant in tea. Tea's flavor and aroma are due to small amounts of oil and resinous components. Tannin gives it body. Most of the caffein is extracted during the three to four minute brewing, and longer standing usually doesn't dissolve any more. But longer standing takes out more tannin, which spoils the flavor, and can even make the tea detrimental to digestion.

"Strong" tea is much better if it is the result of brewing a larger measurement of the tea leaves than if it is obtained by long steeping of the usual measurement. That's unfortunate, in view of the shortage of the makings for this pleasant drink. We can follow a few simple rules in order to use what tea we have more economically:

1. Always use freshly boiling water in making tea.

2. Remove leaves after a steeping of from 3 to 5 minutes. [Some tea addicts declare that the water can stand on the leaves for 7 minutes without too great damage to flavor. But don't go beyond this limit!]

3. Be sure your teapot is scrupulously clean. It should be washed in soapy water and scalded after every use. The invisible remains of one brewing can linger on to spoil the flavor of a later one, if you aren't careful in this respect.

We won't be able to have all the iced tea we want to cool us off this summer. In fact, we'll probably have precious little of our favorite hot weather drink. Half iced tea and half lemonade makes a good drink, tho, and we'll be able to have all the fruit punches we want, according to the present outlook. Many of our favorite punches are made on a tea base—we'll have to forego these for the most part. More fruit juice and water or gingerale can be used in place of the tea.

Children Must Take Mistakes in Their Stride

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Of course we should temper the wind to the shorn lamb—which means that in dealing with our children we cannot treat them like adults, expose them to any and all influences, nor expect them to react to experience and influences like adults. But that is no reason to wrap them in cotton wool, nor to allow them to sidestep all issues.

An interesting example of this point is to be found in the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: My son is 11 years old. He was in a piano recital recently and he started out well with his piece, then he made a mistake, and after that everything went wrong. He couldn't remember the rest of it and finished the best he could, which was everything but good. This was his fourth recital and he never made a mistake before.

"Now what I would like to know is this. What would you suggest that we do, from a psychological viewpoint? We had been thinking of changing teachers before this happened. Would you suggest that we change, and when the next recital comes up, he would be in a different place and in different surroundings? Or would you suggest that he stay with the same teacher?"

I can remember this very thing happening to me at 11. I suffered; but it was taken for granted that I would play the next time, and my teacher and mother were both sensitive and understanding women. My reply to this mother follows:

"Dear Mrs. ——: I understand why you are concerned about your son's reaction to the mistakes he made in the piano recital. However, I would not consider this a reason for changing his teacher. When a boy is 11 he is old enough to be able to suffer the kind of embarrassment he did and not be crushed by it.

"Instead of changing his teacher and making much of this little situation, it would be much more wholesome to have him go thru with another recital. But on the next occasion let him prepare even better for it. Even children must learn to take failure in their stride occasionally. If I were you, I would talk this over with him very simply, and then forget it."

Musical Recital.

Lucy Atkinson and Celia Bender of the Chicago Conservatory will present Eugenia Derendal, soprano, and Alice Rericha, pianist, in recital tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Little theater in the Kimball building.

Two Styles of Apron

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' APRONS.

Both these apron styles will serve you well this busy summer season. One pattern makes a model to slip over your frocks when you're doing a few quick chores around the house. The other is a complete frock with contrasting binding for trim.

Style No. 3564 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires 2⅛ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 3560 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 35 inch material with 3 yards of binding.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

Women who sell war bonds must have training, just as women who are prepared to give first aid, or who are enrolled in any of the war effort jobs. Mrs. Charles E. Peace is chairman of the bond instruction committee of the women's division of the Chicago and Cook county war savings staff. Headquarters are in the old treasury building, 105 West Adams street. Mrs. Peace conducts classes on Tuesday and Thursday mornings and on Wednesday afternoons. More than 1,100 women have already taken the course, and 50 have qualified as teachers to instruct branch groups.

Mrs. Charles E. Peace.

Besides the daytime classes, there is instruction at 7:30 o'clock on Monday and Thursday evenings. Women interested in qualifying to sell bonds should call at room 300 at 105 West Adams street. Staff members there say that a long list of available saleswomen is particularly valuable when stamp booths have to be erected for special events, such as conventions, rallies, and patriotic programs.

Many women are taking the places of men in the nation's regular business activities. There are now more than 65,000 women in financial work thruout the nation, and estimates are that the figure will pass 100,000 in the next 12 months. More than 7,000 women are enrolled in study courses of the American Institute of Banking. One department in a Washington bank has 40 girls to one male employé.

It was the World war which gave women their opportunities in banking, and ever since women have gained increasing influence in financial circles. Douglas Malcolm of the travelers' cheque survey bureau of the American Express company compiled the figures on the status of women in American finance today.

School will be out at exactly 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning for more than one hundred women completing the OCD course at Roosevelt school, River Forest. All of them have been in civilian defense work since the suburban office opened Feb. 16, and they are completing requirements for OCD certificates as accredited workers in an eight hour course in fire and bomb protection, gas protection and general survey of OCD work. These women will be River Forest's day air wardens, OCD office workers, and block directors.

The Lincoln Square community of the Chicago Commission on Civilian Defense has planned a program, "A Ceiling for Your Purse," to answer important consumer questions. The program will be presented at 7:45 o'clock on Wednesday in the Hild library, 4536 Lincoln avenue, and will include talks on "The Consumer in Wartime" by Mrs. Prentiss McKenzie and on "Maximum Price Control" by John P. McGoorty Sr. "A Teaspoon of Sugar," a skit by the Chicago Repertory group, and music by the Victory String quartet will round out the program. The Lincoln Square center, which is newly opened, is at 4819 North Western avenue and is prepared to serve 45,000 residents of the community.

Another consumer's information center ready to serve is at the Oak Park civilian defense office, 144 North Oak Park avenue, in the suburb. Its official opening will be tomorrow, and two sessions of a clothing clinic, one at 10 o'clock and the other at 2 o'clock, are planned. Admittance to the clinic will be one or more out-of-date garments that can be remodeled. Mrs. R. H. Herrick, Mrs. Clement Robertson, and Mrs. Thomas C. Orr of the textile conservation committee will conduct the clinic with the aid of a group of sewing experts. Another service offered thru the information center is advice on cooking and nutrition and recipes from the Oak Park Public Service company.

The recreation center for service men at 1249 South Wabash avenue is beginning a program of instruction in cards and table games this evening. This is an addition to the present system of instruction in archery, arts, and crafts.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Dashing Coats Shed Rain and Raise Spirits

BY REA SEEGER

Resist the wet weather gracefully with dash and color! New slickers and new umbrellas sufficiently brilliant in shade to defy the gloomiest day or steady downpour are fascinating. Whether you boast Scotch ancestry or not, there's nothing like a plaid umbrella over your head to help you fight the doldrums during the most protracted record of waterfall.

Or you can change about with printed umbrellas, the designs of huge flowers being particularly cheerful because of the vivid contrasts in the prints. Combinations of print and plain, the dashing dotted affairs, the stripes that can be seen for blocks and the tricky novelty materials, most of them with a decided shine, provide all the umbrellas you need to make it easy going in the rain.

There are two especially good raincoats in one showing, one a stunning tobacco brown called aviator tan and the other a good gun metal tone. The material is "koroseal," stuff that doesn't crack. It's flexible and comparatively soft, cut like a swanky masculine raincoat with a double back yoke, snugly fitted sleeves with a wrist strap, and a collar that fits as smoothly as that on a coat of wool.

Umbrellas to match have a choice of colored handle tops and ribs; simulated amber, tortoise shell, ivory and red for the aviator brown; red, green, white, and crystal clear on the gun metal shades. Both swank slicker and matching umbrella are modestly priced. We fervently hope, that, since we passed on the news, the rain has stopped . . . anyway, it's smart to spend for a rainy day when it's such smooth protection.

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Low, and Inside.

A tale of a little girl who talked too much concerns a young woman eager to get into government work of a highly confidential nature. Returning home on the Rocket, she fell into conversation with a distinguished looking gentleman and in the course of the conversation confided her ambition.

But, she said, warming to her subject, she understood a great deal depended upon an interview with a certain government official and he was—so she was told—an old grouch. Her train companion listened sympathetically and at last offered to make an appointment for her with the grouchy official whom he chanced to know.

You've guessed the pay-off. On the appointed day, at the appointed hour, in her Sunday best the young woman was led into the inner sanctum and came face to face with her erstwhile train companion who was, of course, the government official. She didn't get the job. And she didn't stay long. Just long enough to listen respectively to a kind but frank warning that confidential positions require persons who are not confidential with strangers!

Stenographic History.

The Backward Glance:

From the May, 1912, issue of the Gregg Writer: "Touch typewriting was first attempted in the east. Mr. Bates Torrey undoubtedly was the first to use the term 'touch' as applied to typewriting." He says in a letter:

"'Way back in 1889 the textbook 'Practical Typewriting by the All Fingers Method Which Leads to Operation by Touch' was issued with the name of Bates Torrey below that title as author. After a lapse of 23 years I still remember why I called it operation by touch, and I have a distinct recollection of the dozen years or so of special pleading to convince the public and interest the machine makers.'

"In the October number of the World, 1889, Mr. Torrey makes an announcement of his book Practical Typewriting as follows:

"Ready September 1st, 1889, a Manual of Practical Typewriting, by Bates Torrey; the pioneer textbook in the new era of typewriting by 'touch.'"

And thus proof is offered that the touch system is no new invention, altho its general adoption by business schools extended over a period of many years.

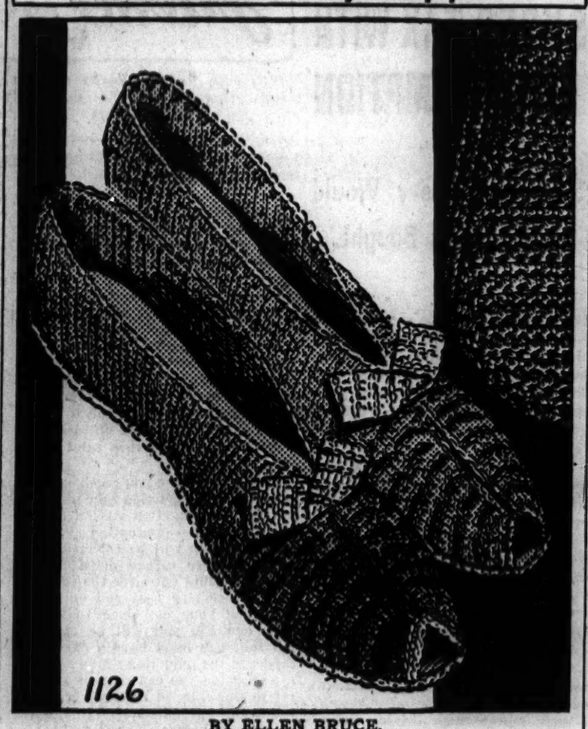
Crocheted Play Slippers



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted slippers are a boon to every person "around the house" or during playtime. They are more comfortable than leather shoes, and equally durable. These shoes are easy to create and are attractively trimmed with crocheted bows.

For instructions in crocheting these play and house shoes, No. 1126, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

At match-point duplicate, a variation of two tricks on the same hand, at the same contract, and against the same defense is something to wonder about. It is particularly remarkable when the only possible point of difference is in the handling of the trump suit.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding did not go like this at all the tables, but in every case South ended up declarer at a game contract in hearts.

The spade ten was opened by every West, but right here was the end of uniformity.

Three declarers elected to take the first trick in their own hands. The lead of a low heart then trapped West's singleton king and on a return heart lead, East was confined to one trump trick whether or not he split his honors.

Two declarers who won the opening lead in dummy and then made the correct play of cashing the heart ace achieved the same result.

Two other declarers, however, managed to lose two heart tricks. They won the first spade in dummy, then led the deuce of trumps and when East followed with the five-spot, put in the eight. This drove out the king but later West had a sure trick in his J-10-2. Since in all cases a diamond had to be conceded, these two North-South teams had to be content with fulfilling their contract.

At any rate, they did better than one hapless South who actually found a way to lose three trump tricks, and his contract. This ingenious individual performed as follows: He won the first trick in dummy, played the deuce of hearts from dummy and the queen from his own hand! Now West's blank king rendered really heroic service. The queen having been completely wasted, this declarer then had to concede two more trump tricks to East, for the inglorious defeat of the ironclad contract.

49 Methodist Pastors Get New Churches

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Only 49 pastors for the 345 Methodist churches of the Rock River [Northern Illinois] conference were appointed to new pastorates yesterday by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf as the 103d session of the conference closed at First church, Evanston. All district superintendents were reappointed.

Only one of the major churches of the conference was affected by the 1942 change. This was First church, Chicago temple, 77 West Washington street, where no pastor has yet been named to succeed the Rev. Dr. Iver M. Johnson. Dr. Johnson, who was named pastor in 1941, has asked to be transferred back to the Illinois [Central Illinois] conference. He will take a years' sick leave. The Rev. Clark Wood, associate minister of the Chicago temple, was appointed to First church, Ottawa.

Prior to reading the appointment list, Bishop Waldorf ordained 14 deacons and 11 to the eldership or full ministry of the church. These are Robert A. W. Bruel, Paul Gilbert, Kermit Long, Robert Pierce, Daniel M. Jordan, George W. Martin, Joseph R. Bogle, Clarence E. Flock, Harold M. Kelley, and Richard W. Ricker. Carl F. Olson was ordained to the eldership but with a localized status.

Other appointments:

BY KATE MASSEE.

As Good Today.

From a volume of exhortaties entitled "The Whole Duty of Man," printed in 1717 by Samuel Fairbrother, Dublin bookseller:

"This is the advice St. Peter gave the Wives of his time. [1. Peter iii., 1] 'Likewise ye Wives be in subjection to your own Husbands, that if any obey not the word, they also may without the word be won by the Conversation of the Wives.' It seems that the Good behavior of the Wives was thought a powerful Means to win Men from Heathenism to Christianity; and sure it might now a-days have some good Effects, if Women would but have the patience to try it. At the least 'twould have this, that it would keep some tolerable Quiet in Families; whereas on the other side, the ill fruits of the Wives' Unquietness are so notorious, that there are few Neighborhoods but that give some Instance of it. How many Men are there, that to avoid the noise of a froward Wife, have fallen into Company keeping, and by that to Drunkenness, Poverty and a Multitude of Mischiefs? Let all Wives, therefore, beware of administering that Temptation. But whenever there happens anything, which in kindness to her Husband she is to admonish him of, let it be with that Softness and Mildness, that it may appear 'tis Love, and not Anger, that makes her speak."

Timing.

This one happened at a home wedding in Winnetka, according to Helen Gambrill. The bride's sister, who was to be the matron of honor, carefully instructed her 5 year old son to sit quietly in the living room with the family and not to make himself conspicuous. The little fellow gravely agreed, marched solemnly to his chair, then, just as the minister entered the room, walked up to him, took a small box from his pocket, opened it and released a mouse among the wedding guests.

Any Copies Extant?

Reminiscing on her early years in Chicago, Mrs. John R. Thompson recalled her late husband's first commissary, which was established in 1890 in State street near Lake, and which was the forerunner of today's Thompson restaurants. One day two young men walked into the commissary and suggested to Mr. Thompson that they write and illustrate a booklet to stimulate sales of Roma coffee. Their offer was accepted, and Mr. Thompson was so delighted with the booklets that he ordered several hundred of them, to distribute among his customers. The author was George Ade, the illustrator John T. McCutcheon, the title, "Roma Coffee." Mrs. Thompson regrets that she has no copy of the booklet and wonders if there are any hereabouts.

Zany Story.

A fellow of our acquaintance had occasion to make a business call at a plant in the huge central manufacturing district. One of his associates offered to drive him out, saying he knew the district thoroly. After cruising about for sometime without finding the plant, the driver halted at a guard post at the Municipal airport and asked the guard: "Did you see a car like this one with two men in it go by here about an hour ago?" "I believe I did," answered the guide. "Well," said the waggish driver, "that was us. Which way were we going?"

NATION WARNED TO GUARD RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH

Rep. Coffee Issues Appeal on Forum of Air.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—A ringing plea for wartime protection of freedom of speech as a safeguard to a fundamental precept of democracy was heard tonight over the American Forum of the Air. Rep. John M. Coffee [D., Wash.] declared that liberties guaranteed in the first amendment to the constitution must be maintained more militantly than ever before.

Rep. J. M. Coffee.

He said that to do otherwise would be to surrender to hysteria, permitting hatred of Fascist doctrines to befog the nation's judgment.

He noted that freedom of speech, as set forth in the Atlantic charter and enunciated again in the united nations' pact, is one of the four freedoms for which America is fighting.

Other Speakers Agree.

Other speakers participating in a discussion of "Should War Curb Free Speech?" joined Coffee in upholding citizens' rights to express honest opinions and fair criticism of governmental activities at all times. The Forum of the Air is regularly broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

James N. Rosenberg, New York educator and attorney, argued, however, that a curb on speech in war is necessary to some extent to prevent the spread of subversive activities.

President Lincoln acted against those guilty of defeatist utterances during the Civil war, he said, and Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes subscribed to curbs on speech under the sedition act during the last World war.

"The real question, therefore, is not whether war should curb free speech but to what extent and by whom such curbs should be imposed," Rosenberg said. "We must beware of witch hunting, safeguard honest opinion and fair criticism. It is, however, vital to prevent and punish incitement to defeatism, discord, disloyalty, group hatreds, sedition, or treason."

By way of reply, Rep. Coffee turned back the pages of history to show that it is part of the American tradition not to restrict criticism during wartime. He recalled that Lincoln, along with Daniel Webster and Henry Clay, was critical of the Mexican war.

Opposes Curb on Opinion.

The right of Englishmen to criticize war policies long has been defended and upheld, he continued. David Lloyd George opposed the Boer war, said Coffee.

"If the speech expresses mere opinion, it is not subject to prohibition," he asserted. "We must not suppress criticism in wartime. Our cause should be strong enough to prevail over all its traducers.

"The Supreme court of the United States, in my judgment, enunciated the proper rule to which strict adherence should be given by prosecutors, juries and courts, when it said: 'The constitution is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and in peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times and under all circumstances. No doctrine involving more pernicious consequences was ever invented by wit of men than that any of its provisions could be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government.'"

Cites Limits to Right.

Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel of the American Civil Liberties union, warned that freedom of speech cannot be construed to cover the right to disclose military information or to incite to violence or to violation of the law. Referring to recent anti-sedition prosecutions he said:

"What is the effect of these prosecutions? To some THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the [New York] Daily News should be put out of business. Even the Saturday Evening Post has been under fire. The Irish papers as well as many American papers say we are supporting British imperialism. Others attack the Russians and communism. Various groups in the United States have different prejudices. The result of attempts at suppression would be to stir up resentment, hatred, fear, and make issues of matters that are relatively dormant, issues that would divert us from the one effort on which the country as a whole is united—the winning of the war."

"We all agree on the basic principle of freedom of speech," said Dr. Charles Pergler, former Czecho-Slovakian minister to the United States and present dean of the National university law school. "I think there also will be an agreement on the proposition that there is no such thing as absolute liberty or private rights. However, as viewed by those of us who are of the democratic persuasion, there is a social interest in personal liberty."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What has been one of the most unusual requests made of your organization? [Asked of Traveler's Aid workers.]

WHERE ASKED.

Railway stations.

THE ANSWERS.

Ruth Sackerson, 701 North Michigan avenue—A stagestruck girl had run away and was on her way to Hollywood. Her mother asked us to talk her into putting off her trip for one day. We found her where we find most of them: at the information desk. She was glad for some one to change her plans.

Lois J. Utterback, 5639 Blackstone avenue—Three little Mexican boys were traveling with a group when their coach switched off and they were left behind. They had no tickets and didn't know their destination, so it was our duty to find out.

Eleanor Richards, 4938 South Drexel boulevard—A frantic mother requested in a long distance call that we try to dissuade her young daughter from marrying the equally young man in uniform. We at least brought about a reconciliation with the parents and everybody was happier.

Marrianna Moss, 1513 East 57th street—One excited man spoke incoherently about his "Clarabella." He said we'd have to hurry her off the train because the temperature was too low and she was catching cold. Clarabella was a pet seal.

Mrs. J. C. Toothaker, 1518 Oak avenue, Evanston—A woman called us from another city and asked if we could have a quart of goat's milk waiting when she came thru to change trains. Her baby could drink nothing else as she traveled across the country.

Nevin Wiley, 5726 Maryland avenue—It is not unusual for us to advise on city tours, but the most unusual was a sight seeing tour we planned for a blind man. He said he wanted to travel thru colorful parks and along the lake so we planned it that way.

TREASURY SCANS SUPER TAX WITH DEBT EXEMPTION

'Spendings' Levy Would Be on Goods Bought.

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP).—The treasury, seeking a way to impose higher income taxes than those in the pending bill without penalizing too heavily persons who have fixed debt charges to meet, is studying a special income levy from which at least part of "saved" income would be exempt.

The plan, called a "spendings tax," would be imposed on top of the income tax contemplated in the bill approved last week by the house ways and means committee. Its effect would be to increase the tax on income ordinarily spent for various commodities but not on income used, for example, to meet mortgage payments.

Broached By Paul.

This idea, it was learned today, was broached by Randolph Paul, tax adviser to Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, in a memorandum prepared for the ways and means committee. Paul made no specific recommendations and did not define "saved" income but indicated that the exemptions would cover such things as payments on a home, purchase of war bonds and possibly life insurance premiums.

As he outlined it, the central thought was that income taxes could not be placed as high as the treasury thinks they ought to go without an intolerable hardship on persons who must meet fixed obligations such as payments on a house. Yet to exempt such payments from the regular income tax would be inequitable.

Consequently, the spending tax is under study as a sort of super income tax applying, after basic deductions, to income which acutally is spent.

Treasury Idea.

Paul's memorandum said:

"Even under this separate tax, a complete exemption of all savings might be unnecessary; one-half or three-quarters, or some other fraction, of the saved income could be exempt.

"The spendings tax would differ from a sales tax in at least three respects: [1] It would be collected directly from the consumer, not from business firms; [2] It would grant personal exemptions and a credit for dependents, and [3] It would have a progressive rate scale, graduated by spending brackets.

"In general, this plan would call for pushing the regular income tax as high as it could go without imposing excessive hardship on debtors, and then using the spendings tax to get the rest of the income tax money that was needed. This solution of the debtor problem is in many ways the most promising of all.

"The staff is now studying the spendings tax to ascertain what difficulties might be encountered with it in practice."

Exhausted Swimmer, 17, Rescued at Oak Street

Two swimmers on the crowded Oak street beach yesterday heard the screams of Christian Schoot, 17 years old, 263 North Pulaski road, and swam to his rescue. They are Frank Uchiek, 25, of 2330 West Thomas street, a machinist, and Gilbert Wolf, 18, of 1808 South Central Park avenue, a truck driver. Schoot had become exhausted 100 yards from shore. His rescuers revived him with artificial respiration.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military services, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. S. writes: "I was in the first draft and was rejected for service. Since then I have tried to get in other branches of service but was always rejected. Now I have been reclassified to 1-A. Do I have to go thru the humiliation again of being turned down? I quit one job because I thought I was going to be inducted. Must I quit another job? I hate to go back to work after being rejected. Can't I take the physical exam at an army recruiting station and if I pass I will enlist. If I'm not physically fit I don't want to go thru all I did a year ago."

ANSWER: When you receive orders to report for induction you must appear at the induction station for another physical examination even tho you know you will be rejected. The fact you were turned down for enlistment would not alter the case. It is not necessary that you quit your job. Tell your employer that it is very doubtful you will be accepted but that you must have a day off to report at the induction center. If you are accepted you can request a transfer to the enlisted reserve corps and a delay of approximately 14 days will be allowed before you are ordered to report for induction. During those 14 days you could return to civilian life and inform your employer and adjust any other business affairs.

A. S. writes. "I have enlisted in the naval reserve and have received the rating of 1st class petty officer. What is my monthly base pay? How much will my wife receive from the government?"

ANSWER: Under the new pay raise bill your monthly base pay will be $114. Your wife will not be eligible for a government allotment as such allotments will go only to dependents of service men whose pay is $78 a month or less.

C. A. G. asks: "When the supply of men in each classification is exhausted, will the boards move on to the next regardless of the registrant's age? Thus, will a man of 40, physically fit, with a wife and no children be called before a youth of 21 with a wife and child?"

ANSWER: The order in which men are called will be governed by the class 3 category in which they are placed. A registrant's age will not be a factor. Four categories have been set up. Last to be called will be men with children, providing they were married before Dec. 8, 1941, at a time when induction was not imminent. Registrants with wives with whom they are maintaining a bona fide family relationship in their homes will be called before the men with wives and children.

E. S. M. asks: "Can you tell me where I can apply for work in the USO? I prefer overseas duty."

ANSWER: Write to the United Service Organizations, National headquarters, room 1630, Empire State building, New York City. Give in detail your experience, education, and age in your letter. It is preferred that applicants be university graduates with experience in conducting recreational and social activities.

To W. S. L.: Your dental condition will have to be corrected before you are accepted for enlistment.

WHITE SOX ROUT YANKS, 6-2, 13-1; CUBS SPLIT

BACK TED LYONS AND HUMPHRIES WITH 27 HITS

38,042 See Ruffing, Bonham Pounded.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ted Lyons, Johnny Humphries, and all the other White Sox boys who played yesterday delighted 38,042, Chicago's largest 1942 baseball crowd, by giving the New York Yankees a pair of almost unprecedented drubbings in Comiskey park.

The score of Lyons' victory was 6 to 2, and it was followed by a 13 to 1 riot in the second spectacle for Humphries' fourth victory of the season. All-Star Red Ruffing went all the way to lose to Lyons and All-Star Ernie Bonham got washed away in the third inning of the second game by a flood of Sox hits, which included homers by Tom Turner and Don Kolloway.

The double slaughter gave the Sox three out of four in the series after they had lost their first eight engagements with the New Yorkers. The Yanks lost 9 out of 14 played on their western trip now ended. It was the first double header lost this year by the world champions in 11 played.

Ted Does Some Hitting, Too.

Lyons, whom the American league managers neglected to name on the All-Star team because of their Yankee inferiority complex, pitched and batted the White Sox to that 6 to 2 victory over Ruffing. It was Ted's 251st American league success, and tied him with Ruffing as the majors' winningest pitcher in active service.

It was Lyons' sixth victory of the season and his first start and victory over the Yanks, whom he has beaten 28 times in 20 years. He never gave them a sounder thrashing.

Lyons and Ruffing opened the current season with Ted possessed of 245 victories and Red with 244. Red forged ahead and two weeks ago was leading Ted by three games. Then Ted beat the Senators, Red Sox, and Yankees on successive Sabbaths to effect the tie.

Sox Make 27 Hits in All.

The White Sox made 14 hits in the first game and 13 in the second. Joe Kuhel had a perfect hitting string in the first game with three singles and a walk. Taft Wright got on base every time at bat in the second game with three singles, a double and a Yankee error. Wright also had a pair of singles in the first game. Kolloway had four hits during the afternoon. His homer was his second of the year. Turner's homer, by the way, was his second of the season and second in successive series.

In the first game Lyons drove in the second and third Chicago runs with a double in the second inning and that third one proved the winner. The vet also scored the fifth run after singling in the fourth and he helped the sixth run around with a sacrifice in the eighth.

The Yankees scored their two runs in the first and fourth innings. Frankie Crosetti opened the game with a triple over Sam West's head and scored on Buddy Hassett's infield out. Joe DiMaggio singled with one out in the fourth, advanced on Charley Keller's out, and scored on Joe Gordon's single to right.

Three on—DiMaggio Fails.

In the fifth, singles by Ruffing, Hassett, and Tom Henrich had the bases loaded with two out. Then the mighty DiMaggio forced Henrich on a grounder to Bob Kennedy. After that it was just a breeze for Ted. Bill Dickey, who got an infield single with two out in the sixth, was the only Yank who reached base in the last four innings.

In the second inning, successive singles by Wright, Kuhel, and Kennedy got a run home before anybody was out. Kuhel and Kennedy moved to third and second on West's sacrifice, whereupon Mike Tresh fouled to Hassett for the second out. It was at this juncture that Lyons banged the aforesaid double, scoring Kuhel and Kennedy.

Singles by Kolloway, Wright, and Kuhel netted a run in the third in-

OLSEN CHECKS BRAVES, 5 TO 1, AFTER 3-0 LOSS

Passeau Is Victim in Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 28.—The Cubs experienced some difficulty, but also some pleasure this afternoon while bringing to a close their second 1942 venture thru the east. Their suffering came in the shape of a 3 to 0 shutout in the first half of their double header with the Braves, but going thru 18 consecutive scoreless innings failed to daze the Chicagoans. They bounced back with 5 to 1 achievement, rounding out a record of eight victories against six losses for their jaunt along the seaboard.

The Chicagoans' short end of the bargain in the first game was slightly more distressing than an everyday defeat, because it involved their big victory man, Claude Passeau, and also Jim Tobin, the fellow who tosses the tantalizing butterfly pitch. Passeau sauntered forth confidently in quest of his 12th victory, but instead came back, thru the courtesy of the Braves, with his fifth trimming. In the meantime the Cubs had been able to notch only three hits in protest against their second straight shutout.

Olsen's Fourth Victory.

The second effort was brought to a happy conclusion for the Chicagoans thru the services of Vern [Lefty] Olsen, as well as some base hits. They knocked out Lou Tost, also left handed, in the fourth, the two run incident being launched by Len Merullo for whom base hits have been painfully few. Later there was more damage against a couple other Braves, the important part of which was a two run homer authored by the same Merullo in the ninth. It was Olsen's fourth straight on the right side of the ledger, bringing him up to 4 and 4 for the year.

FIRST GAME

One of the few times the Cubs had a chance to do anything about Tobin's butterfly pitches in the first game appeared in the second inning. Russell led off with a single and Nicholson was hit by a pitched ball. Foxx then forced Russell at third and Novikoff hurried things along by tapping to Tobin for a double play. The Braves' first run came soon thereafter. Miller doubled to left at the start of the third and was shoved home on a single by Roberge after two were out.

At the start of the sixth Fernandez beat out a single which Merullo plucked from the gumbo in deep short. Nanny went to third on a single to right by West and scored on Lombardi's fly to Novikoff. After this Passeau did very well except for Fernandez's homer over the left field barrier in the eighth.

The Cubs' second chance to progress appeared after Gilbert had opened the seventh with an infield single. Russell was thrown out and Nicholson walked, but both Foxx and Novikoff flied to Demaree.

SECOND GAME

Tost was so hot in the first three innings of the second game that he limited the Cubs to one hit, but they did considerable about enlarging this total in the fourth. Merullo started it with a two bagger, his second safety in 48 times at bat. He romped home on a single by Gilbert. Russell forced Gilbert and scored when Nicholson doubled. Nick was nailed trying to stretch his hit to a triple. The fun continued with a pass to Foxx, who moved to third on Novikoff's double, whereupon Manuel Salvo relieved Tost and broke up the Chicagoan's scoring party.

The Cubs didn't get on the loose again until the eighth when John Sain was on the mound. Gilbert walked, Russell sacrificed and Nicholson walked. Foxx's pop up didn't help the situation, but Novikoff came to the rescue with a single to center, Gilbert scoring.

The Braves countered with their

Ted Lyons sacrificing (arrow shows ball) in the eighth inning of yesterday's first game between the White Sox and Yankees in Comiskey park. Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, trails Ted, and First Baseman Buddy Hassett prepares to pick up the ball to make the play to Joe Gordon at first. The bunt moved up Mike Tresh to second and he counted on Don Kolloway's hit to round out the scoring in a 6 to 2 victory for the Sox. Lyons drove in two runs with a double and also singled. Sox won the second game too, 13 to 1.

ARLINGTON GETS READY FOR GALA JULY 4TH BENEFIT

Expect Army-Navy Funds Will Receive $125,000.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Arlington Park goes into the second week of its meeting this afternoon with three stake events coming up within the next six days. The $3,000 Rolling Lawn handicap is scheduled for Wednesday, the $5,000 Northwestern handicap for Thursday, and the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap for the July 4 program on Saturday.

The Army and Navy relief funds will get all of Arlington Park's proceeds on the Fourth of July, which usually is the biggest day of the entire meeting. It is anticipated that the track will turn over a sum in excess of $125,000 as its contribution to the war effort.

They're Grooming Equifox.

Twenty-nine horses have been nominated for the Stars and Stripes, which is a gallop of a mile and three-sixteenths. Among the eligibles are Steel Heels, winner of this event last year; Equifox, which was withdrawn from the Equipoise mile last Saturday so that nothing would interfere with his preparation for the Stars and Stripes; Technician, Pumpgun, Sirocco, Staretor, and other good ones.

The Rolling Lawn handicap at a mile and a furlong will be the first of three stakes which will be run on the turf course. The next will be the Green Velvet a week from Saturday and the Grassland on July 22. These values are arranged in an ascending order with the Grassland worth $10,000.

Arlington Handicap Shifted.

The 13 eligibles for Rolling Lawn include No Competition, Heartman, Welcome Pass, Cherry Trifle, Haichow, Gallant Play, and Equitable.

The Arlington handicap was run on the grass last season, but has been transferred to the regular course this time and its value has been raised to $25,000. The value of the Grassland has been increased to make up for the change on behalf of the turf runners.

The Northwestern handicap at seven furlongs has drawn the nominations of 25 sprinters, many of which are capable of brilliant speed. Some Chance, Smacked, Polymelior, Technician, and Potranco are a few of the eligibles. Equifox is on the list, but it is considered scarcely likely that he will go to the post.

Looks Like Big Season.

Last Saturday's big attendance and mutuel handle gave promise that Arlington Park is going to have one of the best meetings in its history. The program will continue to pick up as the season advances with many of the best horses in the country pointing for the rich Arlington Futurity on July 18 and the Classic on July 25.

Army and navy officials will take part in the Fourth of July program. The army group will be headed by Maj. Gen. George Grunert and the navy men by Rear Adm. John Downes.

Disappointment.

There are times when you are happy,
When skies seem bright and clear,
Because you're in love with some one,
Who seems so close and dear.

And then before your eyes appear,
Dark clouds which seem so dreary,
You search and seek for the one so near,
But your head becomes too weary.

And so you weep of the good times past,
Praying that they'll return,
But down in your heart, you discover at last,
All you can do is to yearn.

And so life goes on as it always has,
But yet there's still something missing,
Try as you may, there's no other way,
And so you go on, just existing.

However, they say that love finds a way,
And so I am waiting to see,
If that adage is right and if I might,
Of this yearning, one day, be free.

I'm now a walking citizen
Since rubber's getting short,
And ev'ry day for many miles
Right gladly I cavort.
And tho cars big and little
Go dashing madly by,
I hail them with a touch of pride
And walk along in high.

The doctors all have told me
That walking gives me pep,
And so as much as possible,
I'm keeping right in step.
And up and down the thorofares,
In weather foul or fair,
You'll find me hiking hard and fast
And breathing miles of air.

I see the neighbors' gardens,
I catch the scent of flowers,
I watch the children at their play,
The birds in leafy bowers.
So let the others travel
In truck, coupe, sedan,
I'm making my journeys on the hoof—
An ardent walking fan.

Senators May Get 14 More Night Games

The Washington Senators probably will be granted the privilege of adding 14 more night games to their present schedule of 21. The matter is to be taken up at a joint major league meeting which will be held in New York a week from today, on call of Commissioner K. M. Landis. Indications are that a petition by Clark Griffith, owner-president of the Senators will be granted.

President Will Harridge of the American league says that Griffith has submitted figures proving conclusively that it is essential that he be permitted to schedule night games for all week-day dates. Contests scheduled for Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays will be played in the afternoon, as scheduled.

It is said Griffith has shown attendance figures averaging around 7,800 for night games with drop-offs to 800 on days after such nocturnal turnouts.

"Most baseball people express themselves as determined to reëstablish a limit of seven night games after the war," said Mr. Harridge. "But under the present circumstances in the nation's capital, it seems to be recognized that the petition for 14 more night games, a total of 35 for the season in Griffith stadium, is justified. I wouldn't be surprised if Mr. Griffith's request is granted."

RIGGS AND BUDGE GAIN FINALS IN PRO TENNIS MEET

New York, June 28 (AP).—Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., was at his theatrical best today in the semi-finals of the national professional tennis tournament, but while he was getting the laughs, Bobby Riggs was picking up points to win, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Moving ahead along with Riggs was Don Budge, Kovacs' fellow townsman, who opened the show for 6,000 galleryites at the west side tennis club in Forest Hills by defeating Wayne Sabin, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

Kovacs divided his time between joking with the ball-boys, squabbling with the officials, and clowning with the fans. Occasionally, he managed to slip in a little tennis, but not enough to overcome an annoyed Riggs who was at the top of his game.

The Chicagoan kept Kovacs busy with a series of drop shots and when Kovacs got a bit too troublesome in forecourt, Bobby sent him scurrying with deep-driven lobs which were outright winners most of the time.

The finals will be played next Saturday.

Kovacs and Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., won 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 over Robert Harman of Long Beach, N. Y., and John Nogrady of Wilmington, Del., to reach the doubles finals. Next Saturday they will face Budge and Riggs who defeated Sabin and Berkeley Bell of New York, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, 10-8.

Heafner Keeps Mahoning Title on 264 Total

Girard, O., June 28 (AP).—Clayton Heafner shot a three below par 65 today to successfully defend his Mahoning Open title with a total score of 264—as low as any marksman ever scored in a recognized golf tournament.

Heafner thus tied Craig Wood's world record 264 in the 1940 Metropolitan Open with rounds of 66, 65, 68, and 65—only to see it stay out of the record books. The Professional Golf association tournament manager, Fred Corcoran, explained the par 68 Mahoning Valley Golf club course is shy several hundred yards—or about a hole—what it would have to be for a recognized mark.

He Likes Mahoning.

Heafner, who will be 28 next month, recalled he had never won a major tournament until he took the Mahoning Open last year. "I think I'll have to move here," he remarked. For his eight below par on the 72 holes, he collected the $1,000 top prize.

The Carolinian finished three strokes ahead of E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Harrisburg, Pa., and Horton Smith of Pinehurst, N. C.

Harrison, who started the day in a three way tie with Heafner and Lloyd Mangrum at 131, collected his 267 with rounds today of 70 and 66, while Smith fired a steady 66-67 to add to 134, giving them $650 each.

Five strokes behind Heafner came Ben Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Cal., and Gene Kunes of Philadelphia with 269s.

One Bad Round.

Hogan, from Hershey, Pa., almost blew himself out of the tournament yesterday with a 71, three above par. But he rallied today with 66-65.

Mangrum led the field at the three quarter mark with 198.

30 TEAMS IN PRO-AMATEUR MEET TODAY

The annual Chicago District Golf association pro-amateur golf championship will be decided today on the Tam o' Shanter Country club course. More than 30 teams have entered and the list is expected to pass the 40 mark by starting time, according to Chairman Ted Quinn.

The record entry list is due partly to the desire of local golfers to get an early practice round on the site of the $15,000 Tam O' Shanter national open and all-American amateur tournaments which are to be played July 20 to 26.

Leading contenders among the teams entered are Harry Adams and Art Doering of Medinah, Johnny Revolta and Joe Haggerty of Evanston, Dick Metz and Chuck McGuire of Oak Park, Jock Hutchinson Sr. and John Victor of Glen View, and Bill Gordon and Matt Niesen of Tam o' Shanter. The defending champion is Johnny Revolta, who won last year when teamed with Walter Burkemo.

BOLDEN TO FACE REEVES TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD CLUB

Rivals Meet in 12 Round Rubber Contest.

Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, who has compiled a better than average record in the 160 pound class since turning professional five years ago, will open a campaign for a light heavyweight title bout in a 12 round rubber match with Jimmy Reeves in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

If victorious this evening, Nate will seek a contest with Anton Christoforidis, former 175 pound title holder, in his second step for a shot at the championship held by Coast Guardsman Gus Lesnevich.

One Victory Apiece.

Reeves defeated his Chicago rival last February, but in a rematch held in March Bolden obtained revenge, scoring three knockdowns in the process. Jimmy won impressively over Gene Luker in the Marigold arena in a subsequent encounter to demonstrate his return to excellent form.

Weight tonight is 167 pounds. In his conquest of Luker by a fourth round technical knockout, Reeves carried 164½ pounds. Bolden scaled 165 when he knocked out Gib Jones in his last appearance on June 8.

Petersen Faces Elliott.

Lindy Elliott, New York heavyweight, will attempt to snap Bill Petersen's string of five victories in a six round secondary feature. Alvin Gomez, south side junior lightweight, who recently was stopped by Joe Dupont, will receive a chance to redeem himself in an additional bout of six rounds against Bud Cottey of Indianapolis.

Dickie Cook, Peoria featherweight, is paired with Vito Rizzo in five rounds.

Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer, Kansas City, Mo., heavyweight wrestler, will meet George Becker of New York in the main event of a mat program tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

Cincinnati, O., June 28 (AP).—Francisco Segura of Ecuador pounded two hand drives past Billy Talbert of Cincinnati today to win the 41st tri-state tennis championship, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2, 12-10.

Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., tri-state champion in 1939, won the women's singles, beating Monica Nolan of Cincinnati, 6-4, 6-1.

Lady Skippers' Race Won by Jean Friskey

Jean Friskey won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's first lady skippers' race of the season yesterday off Wilmette harbor at the helm of the Star class yacht Rhapsody. Miss Friskey's crew was Amie Falcon. Roger Friskey, who owns the Rhapsody, was on board but like the other men in the fleet was not allowed to touch the tiller or any lines.

Rhapsody's time for the four and one half mile course was 1:09:50. Other finishers in order were:

Dolphin, Mrs. Emerson Raymond.1:10:10
Carol, Mrs. Carol Lott 1:11:08
Glider, Miss Julie Floyd 1:12:01
Fram, Mrs. Don Bergman 1:13:30
Skipit, Miss Lois Waage 1:18:40
Twinkle Ditto, Miss Ann Hayford.1:27:30

Lorelei Wins Arrow Class.

Lorelei, owned by Ralph Wheelock, won Sheridan Shore's race for Arrow class sloops over a six mile course, in 1:40:20. Lou Gilbert's Pidgie was second and James Holston's Nanpaji third. Ten other boats raced.

The Wilmette Yacht club's Snipe class team defeated Chicago Corinthian Yacht club yachtsmen yesterday off Wilmette in the first of two interclub races, 6,747 points to 5,747. Hi Ho, the Barber-Larsen syndicate entry, was first to finish the six mile course in 1:25:25. The two fleets will conclude the series off Montrose harbor early in August.

Humpit, Richard Humphries, 19 foot sloop, won the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club's race for Lightning class yachts off Montrose harbor. Amigo, owned by Ed Schultz, won the club's Arrow class race. Howard Bordner won the Star class event from the Breckenridge-Bayless syndicate's Ariel.

Fortune, the Richards-Chunn syndicate racing schooner, won the Chicago Corinthian race for Universal and cruising division yachts off Montrose harbor.

Felucca, sailed by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Billhelmer, won the first of two Star boat races held by the Jackson Park Yacht club in the Herbert cup series. Skedaddle, owned by James Elworth, won the second race. Susy II, sailed by Rody Biggert, won the Condor class race.

Two Boats Disqualified.

The 55 foot cruising yawl Trident, owned by P. H. Danly, won the Chicago Yacht club's 15¼ mile cruising race off Chicago harbor. The club's 110 class sloops also raced off Belmont harbor. H. T. Martin's Sea Puss finished first over the 8 mile course, in 1:36:44.

Davshir, Louis Emerman's cutter, won the Columbia Yacht club's working-canvas handicap race off Chicago harbor, defeating Louis Ainbinder's Baccarat. Devshir's corrected time was 2:13:35, and Baccarat's 2:16:41. Betty Bro, Commodore Milton Friend's yawl, and Osprey II., Dr. J. W. Lowell's cutter, were disqualified. Henry Hodak's Adara won the Star class race and Willis Ware's Viking was first in the Tumlaren class.

UMPIRE CHASES DUROCHER; GETS TOWEL IN FACE

French Wins 8th in Row as Dodgers Divide.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 28 (AP).—Paul Derringer pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 5 to 3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first game of a double header today, but the National league leaders won the second, 2 to 1, to take the series, three games to two.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers was banished in the first inning of the first game by Umpire Tom Dunn when he protested a decision at first base. Durocher hesitated after being ordered to leave the bench and Dunn halted the game and started toward the dugout. The manager emerged, kicked a little dust on the umpire's shoes and, as a parting gesture, tossed a towel in Dunn's face.

Larry French gained credit for the victory in the second game, his eighth of the year without a defeat, altho he worked only two innings in relief. It was French's second triumph in three days, during which he worked only four innings.

PHILS, 2-1; CARDS, 1-3.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 28 (AP).—Pitching one of the best games of his career, Tommy Hughes led the Phils to a 2 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a 15 inning struggle which gave the Phils a split in a double header today. The Cards took the second game, 3 to 1, behind the five hit pitching of Lon Warneke.

Hughes went the distance in the overtime opening game and won when Ernie Koy singled with the bases full. The hit scored Stan Benjamin, who ran for Hughes. Hughes yielded 10 hits. He collapsed on the bench after the 10th inning when he ran from first to third, but was revived and came back strong.

Red Sox Beat Indians, 8-3; Lose, 3-2; Senators Outslug Browns

Cleveland, O., June 28 (AP).—A pinch single by Chubby Dean in the eighth inning today scored Oris Hockett to give the Cleveland Indians a 3 to 2 victory and an even break in a double header with Boston's Red Sox. Boston won the first game, 8 to 3, before 19,547 fans. The victory protected the Indians' hold on third place from Detroit.

Outhit in both contests, the Indians made their six hits count in the second game, tallying once in the fourth, sixth, and eighth. Charley Wagner issued seven bases on balls and the Indians converted two of them into runs.

CUBS WIN SECOND FROM BRAVES, 5-1, AFTER LOSING, 3-0

first run in the same inning, the ingredients being a double by Roberge and two infield outs. Then as a matter of safety, Hack singled with one out in the ninth and an instant later Merullo exploded his season's No. 2 homer, both hits off a rookie lefty named Jim Wallace.

The Cubs left this evening on a 24 hour train ride to Cincinnati where they play the Reds Tuesday night in the second half of a combination sunlight-electric light double header. In the first half of the program, a benefit for the Army and Navy Relief funds, a mixed Cubs-Reds team will play the Great Lakes sailors.

Phil Cavarretta, who hasn't missed many games this season, remained out of action because of the death of his grandmother in Chicago.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FORECAST 4.9% MIDWEST RAIL TRAFFIC BOOST

Shippers Gauge 3d Quarter's Needs.

Manufacturers and other shippers in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, western Indiana, and northern Michigan will need 4.9 per cent more railroad cars to handle their freight in the third quarter of 1942 than they used in the corresponding 1941 period, the Midwest Shippers Advisory board estimated yesterday.

The board set the requirements at 984,430 cars for July, August, and September, against 938,511 in the third quarter of 1941. The estimate, however, did not include certain commodities essential to the war production effort, and as a result, the board said, total traffic is expected to show a bigger gain than indicated.

Sugar's Gain Largest.

Among the largest increases predicted for individual classes of goods were 25 per cent for gravel, sand, and stone, 35 per cent for sugar, syrup, and molasses, 25 per cent for machinery and boilers, and 15 per cent for iron ore.

The board predicted sharp declines in movements of some goods as follows: Petroleum and petroleum products, 25 per cent; agricultural implements and vehicles other than automobiles, 25 per cent; brick and clay products, 20 per cent, and canned goods, 15 per cent.

Far Above 1941 Period.

Following is the board's comparison of expected shipments and actual car loadings of the 1941 period:

ALIEN OWNERSHIP.

Is there a limitation on alien ownership of International Telephone and Telegraph corporation stock, and can transactions in foreign share certificates be settled by delivery of domestic share certificates on the New York Stock exchange?—F. W. K.

Answer: In conformity with the federal communications act of 1934, the company has limited ownership of its capital stock by aliens to a maximum of 20 per cent of the total shares outstanding. In connection with this limitation, foreign share certificates have been issued to alien stockholders and domestic share certificates to United States citizens.

The New York Stock exchange has ruled that transactions in domestic share certificates can be settled by delivery of domestic or foreign share certificates, but that transactions in foreign certificates can be settled only by delivery of other foreign certificates.

KOPPERS COMPANY.

Is Koppers company controled by Koppers United? What has been its average for covering fixed charges in recent years?—B. E.

Answer: Koppers United company owns all of the 1 million shares of $20 par common stock of Koppers company outstanding. Koppers company has an eight year average thru 1941 for covering fixed charges of 3.38 times.

Consumers' Goods Industries Keep Earnings Nearly Steady

New York, June 28 [Special].—The consumers' goods industries as a group reported net profits for the first quarter of 1942 that came within 21-3 per cent of their profits for the corresponding period of 1941, despite the greater inroads of taxes and higher operating costs this year.

Seventy companies covered in a survey by the New York Times had combined profits of $54,526,399 for the period, against $55,798,689 a year before. In the final quarter of 1941 the same companies earned $58,327,838.

Clothing Profits Larger.

Clothing and textile companies reported substantial increases in profits compared with the first quarter of 1941, while drug and cosmetic companies and cigar makers showed moderate declines. Miscellaneous concerns, including safety razor makers, showed larger profits than a year ago.

In the food groups, the milk and distilling industries alone showed increases, reflecting war conditions. The former were kept busy filling contracts for the armed forces and lend-lease, while the latter are turning to production of alcohol for munitions makers. Soft drinks showed declining profits, as did candies.

Taxes Cut Food Returns.

Baking, vegetable oils and sirups, and packaged foods showed declining profits, with taxation the principal reason for a less favorable showing.

Comparative first quarter earnings of the various groups follow:

	1942.	1941.
Seventy companies	$54,526,399	$55,798,689
Four dairy products	1,049,165	711,668
Three soft drinks	4,415,031	6,211,434
Five distilling	8,817,768	3,721,881
Four oils and sirups	3,408,166	3,934,752
Six candies	4,405,384	5,583,260
Ten baking	5,061,743	5,103,354
Five packaged goods	5,155,409	8,030,837
Five textiles	3,274,644	2,911,910
Two hosiery	567,817	384,356
Three apparel	336,465	140,042
Five cigars	726,048	831,569
Fifteen drugs	15,418,080	17,048,387
Three miscellaneous	1,489,779	1,185,339

The earnings are for calendar quarters or the nearest fiscal periods.

THREE OFFICIALS OF PENNSYLVANIA ROAD PROMOTED

The Pennsylvania railroad yesterday announced several promotions affecting its officials in Chicago, all to become effective Wednesday. C. E. McCullough, general passenger agent, will become assistant to the passenger traffic manager. E. M. Holt, assistant general passenger agent, will succeed McCullough, and M. N. Luthi, also assistant general passenger agent, will take over Holt's present duties, with no change in title. The road also announced that Berkley Ward Jr., trainmaster of the Chicago terminal division, will become superintendent of the Indianapolis division, succeeding James L. Cranwell, who has been promoted to superintendent of the Philadelphia terminal division.

MILLION RETAIL STORES TO HELP WAR BOND DRIVE

New York, June 28 [Special].—Undertaking a gigantic selling job for the treasury, more than a million retailers throut the United States will be ready on Wednesday to begin their unprecedented "retailers for victory" campaign for the sale of war bonds and stamps.

Using all of the sales skill and effective promotional methods developed over the years, these merchants, big and little, will be the spearhead of the drive for at least a billion dollars in bond sales during July. A quota of at least 4 per cent of each store's July, 1941, merchandise sales has been set, and confidence was strong in retail quarters that this will be exceeded.

Two United Air Directors Assume Active Navy Duty

United Air Lines Transport corporation announced yesterday that two of its directors, Lester Armour of Chicago and Frank Fuller Jr. of San Francisco, have resigned to take up active duty in the navy. The company said the two vacancies and another, created by the death of Mark W. Cresap, will not be filled, action having been taken to reduce the number of directors to 9, from 12.

ASK FOR GRADE STAMP ON BEEF PURCHASES, OPA TELLS HOUSEWIFE

Housewives are assured a simple and accurate guide for buying beef and veal when the new OPA price regulation on these meats becomes effective July 13, John C. Weigal, OPA regional administrator, said yesterday.

All beef and veal sold at wholesale after July 12 must be graded according to government quality specifications and stamped with grade letters, he explained. Ceiling prices must be related to the grades stamped on each meat carcass.

Government grades now called "prime" and "choice" will be combined into the new grade "AA." Usually there is only a small quantity of this top grade available on the market. The present grade known as "good" will be stamped "A," and will cover most of the better grades bought by housewives. The "commercial" grade will be stamped "B" and the "utility" grade "C."

Small cuts of meat, such as steaks and chops, may not show a stamp. Shoppers who want to know which grade they are buying should ask to see a larger piece of the carcass, Weigel said.

PAINE-JACKSON FIRMS' MERGER PUT INTO EFFECT

Consolidation of Paine, Webber & Co. and Jackson & Curtis, investment firms, under the name of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, will become effective today, with all partners of the old firms becoming partners in the new organization, it was announced yesterday. The merger carries out plans announced on May 23.

Chicagoans who will be general partners are Clarence J. Bridgen, Herbert Levy, Michael J. O'Brien, and Reuben Thorson. The merged firm will maintain offices in Chicago, New York, Boston, and other cities.

People and Events

The first change in the presidency of S. B. Penick & Co., drug firm, since its formation nearly 30 years ago was announced yesterday. S. B. Penick Jr., former executive vice president, succeeds as president his father, founder of the company, who was elected to the new office of chairman of the board.

The board of trustees of the Cook County Retail council announced yesterday that the name of the organization has been changed to Chicago Retail Merchants association.

SCRAP SUPPLIES MEET PRESENT STEEL DEMANDS

Experts Anticipate Winter Shortage.

The present supply of scrap metal is meeting steel makers' needs, but most authorities in the trade foresee a repetition of last winter's shortage, the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

"Intensive pressure to bring out material from every source possible is keeping up the flow and in some instances a little progress is being made in building reserves," the publication said in its weekly survey. "Much of present supply is nonrecurrent, capable of quick exhaustion, with nothing to take its place. Scrap resulting from war supply fabrication is lower in proportion to steel consumed than was the case in peacetime manufacture."

Warehouse Stocks Fall.

Another potential trouble maker, Steel indicated, is the depletion of steel warehouse stocks. "Contractors and subcontractors find it increasingly difficult to obtain from this source many items needed for essential purposes," the magazine reported.

Shipbuilding requires more steel than any other industry, the review found. For some time ships have taken most of the record output of plates, and now are assuming a similar position in regard to shapes.

Production Rate Slips.

Ingot production last week was placed at 98½ per cent of capacity, down ½ point from the preceding week. Cleveland advanced 2 points to 94 per cent and Buffalo 2¼ points to 93. Chicago area operations fell ½ point to 103 per cent. Cincinnati declined 6 to 89, Detroit 3 to 92 and Wheeling 2 to 79½.

Unchanged rates were: St. Louis 95½ per cent, Eastern Pennsylvania 96, Birmingham 95, Pittsburgh 95½, Youngstown 95 and New England 100 per cent.

Salesmen.

CAN YOU SELL?

Can you prove it? Have you sold specialties direct to the consumer? Are you used to earning at least $50 to $150 a week? Are you bondable? Have you responsibilities so that you can't afford to loaf between sales? Then come on over and talk with us. We've just asked you a lot of blunt questions—now you ask us some. Do we furnish contacts? Yes. Do we give training to new men? Yes, sir, right out in the field. Do we sell in homes or offices? In both. Are we a reliable house? We're the biggest and strongest publishing company in our line in the world. Do we sell on easy monthly payments? Yes, as low as $7 down. Do I have to have a car? Desirable, but not essential. How do we pay? Right away. Basis: Draw against earned commissions. Ask for Mr. H. E. Hall, suite 1558, 20 N. Wacker-dr.
